PLAN PUBLIC DEBT LIMIT RISE

BOOST TO REACH 60 BILLIONS OR MORE IS STUDIED

Morgenthau Says He Will Ask Congress To Increase Figure

DEFICITS ARE FACED

'We've Just Begun To Rearm,' Treasury Secretary Emphasizes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today he would ask congress to increase the public debt limit sufficiently to finance the nation's defense program through the next fiscal year, which will require a total debt of more than $60,000,000,000.

He said he would present a request for a debt limit of $65,000,000,000 to congress when it reconvenes January 3.

The present debt limit is $49,000,000,000.

Morgenthau told reporters that the treasury would have to borrow $10,000,000,000 during the next fiscal year, and that the debt would increase by $5,000,000,000 during the year.

LOCAL AIRPORT SURVEY PLANNED

Expenditure Of $336,414 In Monroe Possible Under Setup

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Representatives of the civil aeronautics administration have informed Monroe and Louisiana members of congress that the strategic and other advantages of at least three airports in the state would be surveyed and engineered by the board which Congress authorized to develop 500 airports at a total cost of $[illegible].

The CAA, withholding any general announcement merely let it be known in congressional circles that sites under consideration included Hattiesburg, Jackson and Meridian, in Mississippi, and New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Monroe, in Louisiana.

Inspectors are at work in the field and it is expected their findings will be ready for consideration within a month or six weeks.

A tentative CAA survey has set down how much should be spent for improvements, other than building and land, at each airport. If these estimates are adopted and if the final decision is that the airports should be developed in class 4 fields the largest classification, the following expenditures are possible:

New Orleans, $1,409,772; Baton Rouge, $799,680; Monroe, $336,414; Hattiesburg, $360,000; Jackson, $308,381; Meridian, $275,675.

The country at present has only seven class 4 airports, which are for the largest civil and military aircraft now in use or planned for the immediate future. The landing strips are at least 4,500 feet long.

THANKSGIVING IS SET BY F. D. R. ON NOV. 21

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Two-thirds of the nation will observe Thanksgiving day on November 28, the day to be designated by President Roosevelt.

Governors of these 16 states, however, have announced adherence to the traditional date November 28, the last Thursday of the month: Arkansas, Florida, Connecticut, Kansas, Iowa, Nevada, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, North Carolina, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Vermont and Maine.

South America Starts Cooperative Program

Will Lead To Strong Common Front Linking The Americas

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 7 (AP)—South America set to work today on a new integrated program of inter-American cooperation, which many observers believed would result in a strong common front linking the Americas defensively and economically.

While the positive exception of Brazil, the South American nations have been marking time on vital Pan-American problems of economics and defense pending the presidential election in the United States but they regarded President Roosevelt's reelection as a great relief.

Hesitation to make any commitments earlier was particularly noticeable in Argentina, a key nation in whatever cooperation scheme may be worked out to offset economic hardships resulting from war and the threat of a totalitarian spread to the new world.

The country is known to be facing a severe shortage of foreign exchange due to the war and is anxious to obtain major credits from the United States and find increased export markets.

Finance Minister Frederico Penedo announced Wednesday that the Argentine cabinet had given provisional approval to his plan to restrict imports from the United States to vitally needed articles so as to check gold exports. Such a step, he said, was intended to reactivate Argentine economy and balance foreign trade but would be put into effect only if other means of solving the nation's foreign trade problems failed.

One generally well-informed source here said it was possible that Argentina, which is the leading South

ITALIANS DRIVE HARD ON GREECE

Long-Expected 'Big Push' Reported Underway By Invaders

By Associated Press

Italy's long-expected "big push" in the Balkans was with Greece was reported underway today as the Italian high command said Fascist divisions had advanced beyond the Kalamas river on the northwest battle-front.

The Italian invaders had reached the river eight days ago in their thrust from Albania.

Dispatches from the northeast front said the siege of Koritza, key Italian supply base 10 miles inside Albania, where 20,000 Fascist troops have been reported "trapped" appeared to be reaching a critical phase.

Unconfirmed frontier advices reaching Salonika yesterday said Greek mountain fighters, swarming down from heights around the city, had entered Koritza and captured thousands of Italian prisoners.

Military experts discounted the reports, however, pointing out that the Greeks would be in a more favorable position by clinging to the mountains beyond reach of Italian mechanized forces.

Both sides were reported rushing reinforcements to the Koritza sector, with the Greeks still holding the heights above the Albanian town of Bagliste, east of Koritza, despite strong Italian counter-attacks.

A decisive battle, it was said, appeared imminent.

Vaccinates Brain In Test To Prevent Dread Disease

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. An experiment in vaccinating the brain against infantile paralysis was announced today to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc.

The brain is the site of this disease, and damage to brain nerve cells the cause of paralysis. The new method of possible immunizing, now being tried on monkeys, was reported by Dr. Harold K. Faber and associates of Stanford University School of Medicine, Palo Alto, Calif. It is done with a foundation grant.

Reaching, as he does, almost directly into the brain, gets around one obstacle which has baffled all attempts to vaccinate against infantile paralysis. This obstacle is the fact that the disease works inside nerve cells of the brain.

Substances put into the blood fail to get inside these cells and so do not reach the seat of trouble.

Dr. Faber kills the virus, the minute organism which causes infantile paralysis. Then he injects it, near the base of the neck, directly into the tissue around the spinal canal. This vaccine thereupon flows directly to, and around the brain nerve cells.

Alfred E. Fisher of New York University School of Medicine, reported that having the tonsils out adds to the risk of catching infantile paralysis. In the type of paralysis which affects breathing, he said, twice as many persons got the disease after having tonsils removed. It made no difference, he added, whether the removal had been recent or long past.

Few Amendments Over, Others Lose; More Are In Doubt

Welcoming Throng Of Thousands Greet Roosevelt, Wallace As They Return To Capital; Thanks 'Old Friends'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Political observers today were watching the returns from New Orleans to see whether the state's voters had approved or disapproved the proposed constitutional amendment to raise the state income tax rate so that the sales tax will be eliminated in Louisiana.

Returns from about half the precincts in the state showed it was trailing in the same general votes but tabulations were still slow coming in and the fate of most of the other 28 amendments was still in doubt, with some winning and others losing.

The legislature earlier this year proposed the 1 per cent sales tax, effective at the end of the year, expecting the proposed income tax to make up the loss in revenue. There was opposition by Huey P. Long and others to the proposal that the legislature might have power to continue the tax.

Returns from about half the state showed that Governor Sam Jones' amendment which would provide for reorganization of the state government was losing by only a few votes.

Although the Governor's bill must be defeated to be killed, returns indicated it was one of the 28 amendments:

Apparently Ratified

No. 1. Abolish poll book signing.

No. 4. Reduce auto license costs to [illegible].

No. 6 and 7. Authorizing use of [illegible].

No. 9. Reorganizing L. S. U. board [illegible].

No. 11. Authorizing New Orleans to [illegible].

Apparently Defeated

No. 2. Income tax.

EIGHT SUCCUMB TO CRASH HURTS

Seven In Automobile, Driver Of Gravel Truck Fatally Injured

PIPESTONE, Minn., Nov. 7 (AP)—The eighth victim of a car-truck crash near here died in a Pipestone hospital early today.

He was Elmer Barnes, 21, of Pipestone, driver of the gravel truck that was in collision with a car containing eight persons, seven of whom were killed, Wednesday night.

The other dead:

Harry Graham, 35, Pipestone barber, driver of the car, and his eight-year-old son, Billy.

Mr. and Mrs. Iver Bohnhoff, Bruce, S. D., and their young daughter.

Lee Wood, 31, Volga, S. D., and his young daughter.

The eighth occupant of the car, Mrs. Lee Wood, was in a hospital here. Physicians said she apparently suffered principally from shock and it appeared there were no broken bones.

The accident occurred 20 miles east of Slayton where 12 persons lost their lives last April in a collision between two passenger cars.

WARNS ROME LIABLE TO BOMBINGS SINCE ITALY HITS LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP) R. A. Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, told the house of commons today that Britain must "receive full liberty of action in regard to Rome" since Italian fliers had bombed London.

The Italians began to bomb London from a base on the French side of the channel October 24.

When Italy entered the war Mussolini's government declared Rome an open city for undefended city not used as for military purposes, in order to preserve its antiquities from destruction by bombs.

It has not been bombed, but on Monday, when British fliers bombed Naples, the capital had an early morning air raid alarm.

On the same day unofficial Vatican sources said Pope Pius was determined to remain at the Vatican despite such alarms in Rome. The same source indicated the pontiff probably would protest if Rome was bombed, because of the priceless church properties in the city.

SENATOR ISSUES DEFEAT BOOKLET

Spending Money Out Of Own Pocket To Commemorate Debacle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Thousands of candidates for America's political offices were disillusioned, beaten men today, but the people can point with pride to one—Senator Henry Fountain Ashurst—who's spending money to commemorate his debacle.

It's money out of his own pocket, too.

The eloquent Arizonan, defeated in September for renomination by the Democratic party to the senate in which he sat for 28 years, is distributing a handsome booklet in which he tells all about his fall.

It's entitled:

"Farewell to the Senate."

Always one of the most gracious men on Capitol Hill, Ashurst goes in for no dripping sentimentality, bitterness or flippancy in his commemoration of defeat. Just the well chosen words and observations of a good loser.

"A great many people unwisely imagine," Ashurst comments philosophically, "that the beauty and serenity of life inhere in office.

"No, loyalty and honor do not necessarily inhere in cabinets, congresses and courts; loyalty and honor inhere in the citizen:

He goes on:

"If we are to remain a free people, it is the duty of the public servants not grumpily and sourly to accept the verdict of the majority, but joyously to accept that verdict. But, it would be hypocrisy and pretense for me to say that I do not regret leaving the senate."

The defeat commemoration begins with a picture of Ashurst on page one and it ends with a copy of a resolution by the Arizona senate, thanking him for his long service.

In closing this unusual memorial to his own defeat, Senator Ashurst accepts facts with a wholesome candor.

"I should be disingenuous," he concedes, "if I failed to say that they (the people) had a fairly good reason for displacing me."

BLASTS ADMIRALTY

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Commander Robert Tatton Bower, World War veteran and member of parliament, told the house of commons today there is "definite disquiet about the board of admiralty as a whole" in its conduct of Britain's naval affairs.

He asserted that Sir Dudley Pound, first sea lord, was "not the man he was."

Long noted for his out-spoken comment, Bower participated in a short debate on the sinking of the aircraft carrier Glorious with loss of 1,204 men in the Norwegian campaign.

Plan Recreation Activities For Soldiers In Training

By Norman Walker

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 7 (AP) Jack, of course, becomes a dull boy if he works all the time and the army fully realizes the truth in the old adage.

Uncle Sam plans a full recreational program for trainees in his military training plans—other than the hitch-two-three-four marching exercise which still goes on in the army.

Hours set aside for games and recreation in each soldier's regular weekly schedule add up to nearly one of the six and a half days he will train a week. And, of course, there will be plenty of recreation facilities available for use in his leisure, outside the regular eight-hour day training.

Orders issued by Major General Irving A. Fish, Milwaukee, commanding the 32nd division comprising the Michigan and Wisconsin national guards, give trainees free access to town after retreat at 5:30 p.m. when they "knock off" for the day, to the call to quarters, when they're due back in camp, at 10:15 p.m.

On Sundays, when soldiers will be permitted the luxury of lying in bed an hour later than weekdays, they may obtain passes allowing them to leave the Alexandria vicinity entirely until the call to quarters Sunday night.

But army officers supervising construction of permanent civilian troop training quarters outside Camp Beauregard, Louisiana national guard camp where the 32nd division is staying temporarily, hope the recreation facilities they're including will interest soldiers enough so they will prefer staying in camp most of the time.

"The army wants to keep its soldiers happy and in good health," says Colonel C. H. Menger, constructing quartermaster. "For that reason we

CAMP SALARIES $862,000, ARMY PROBERS SAY

Intelligence Department Members Follow Clues In Cape Cod Case

HEAVILY GUARD SITE

Other Monies Also Watched In Massachusetts, Officials Declare

BOSTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—What was described as a plot to rob an $862,000 civilian payroll at Camp Edwards, on Cape Cod, was thwarted today, army officers disclosed.

Officers said they regretted that their discovery of the plot had become known before they had an opportunity to capture "three or four suspicious characters" on the reservation, where they would have been subject to federal prosecution.

The suspects, they said, were from "out of the state."

High officers, however, expressed satisfaction that the army intelligence had been able to pick up a "tip" Tuesday, early enough to take every necessary precaution.

As a result, an especially heavy guard was assigned to the payroll, both by the army and an armored car service, which brought the funds from New Bedford to the camp. At the army post, during distribution of the payroll, which was carried out without incident, armed soldiers were stationed at strategic posts, awaiting appearance of the suspects.

It also was disclosed that a $300,000 civilian payroll which was transported today from Boston to Fort Devens, at Ayer, also was given an especially heavy guard.

Both payrolls were for men engaged in construction and other work at the two camps, now being prepared for men called to the colors under selective service or from national guard units.

HOSPITAL HEAD DIES SUDDENLY

Dr. C. S. Miller, Acting Superintendent At Jackson, Succumbs

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Dr. C. S. Miller, 55, acting superintendent of the East Louisiana State hospital at Jackson, died today in Memphis where he was visiting two brothers, Dr. R. H. Miller of Memphis and Maxie Miller of West Memphis, Ark., friends here learned.

Dr. Miller, generally regarded as one of the state's leading psychiatrists, has served at the state insane hospital for a quarter century in various capacities, the major portion of the time as chief psychiatrist or assistant superintendent.

He has been acting superintendent since September 8, 1939, following the death of Dr. J. J. Ayo, superintendent for many years.

Dr. Miller is survived by his mother, Mrs. C. S. Miller, Sr., Baton Rouge; his widow, the former Marie Wesley; four brothers, the two he was visiting in Memphis, and Moise Miller, Alexandria, and J. S. Miller, Norwood, and a sister, Mrs. Frank Trimble, Baton Rouge.

MARY BOLAND HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Nov. 7. (AP) Sixty-year-old Mary Boland, one of the movies' best known character actresses, was seriously injured Wednesday night in a collision between her chauffeur-driven station wagon and another automobile.

Her physician, called from Hollywood, said she was "resting comfortably" today. He listed her injuries as several broken ribs, a dislocated left hip and a severe forehead gash. The chauffeur and driver of the other car were only slightly hurt.

Miss Boland was en route to Palm Springs for a rest when the accident occurred. Wolf fur was her two dogs, one of which perished in the crash. The other covered unhurt in the wreckage.

ENVOY SHAKEUP LOOMS IN U. S.

Presaging Action To Reinforce Foreign Policies Is Predicted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Presaging action to reinforce American foreign policies, President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull today began rechecking the nation's diplomatic representation in European capitals.

As a result of the war and the consequently altered relationships with belligerent nations, there has been a considerable "turnover" among American ambassadors and ministers in Europe, necessitating a reshuffling soon and probably several changes in important posts.

Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, whose return to the United States produced reports he intended to resign conferred with Secretary Hull Wednesday but declined to discuss the future except to tell newspapermen he had "no plans."

The president and Secretary Hull stated several times, prior to the election, that they had no information that Kennedy would not return to London. Informed officials said today there had been no change in this situation and it was expected Kennedy would return to his post after a vacation from London's around-the-clock bombings.

Kennedy, however, has been mentioned as a possible chairman of the national defense committee, a position not yet filled by President Roosevelt.

The United States is now represented at the capitals of the four major western European nations by charges d'affaires instead of the usual ambassadors.

Herschel V. Johnson, a career diplomat, is in charge of the London embassy during Kennedy's absence.

Leland B. Morris, another foreign service career man, is charge d'affaires in Berlin, where the United States has not been represented by an ambassador since the recall two years ago of Hugh Wilson, now on special duty in the state department.

Edward L. Reed, counselor, is charge d'affaires in Rome during the absence of William Phillips, the ambassador, now on leave in Massachusetts.

Diplomatic observers here also do not expect William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, to return to Vichy. H. Freeman Matthews, secretary of the embassy, is actng as charge d'affaires.

Since the United States still recognizes Poland, it was expected that Anthony Drexel Biddle, now here on leave, will rejoin the Polish government now established in London as American ambassador.

Envoys to several countries, occupied by Germany or Soviet Russia, or wiped off the map by the conquering nations, also are here awaiting decision by the president and Secretary Hull as to the future status of the once-independent countries.

Among them are John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium; John C. Wiley, minister to the Baltic countries; George A. Gordon, minister to The Netherlands; Ray Atherton, minister to Denmark; and Mrs. Daisy Harriman, minister to Norway, and the only woman in the American foreign service.

WINNSBORO MAN HURT AS CAR LEAVES ROAD

E. E. Patterson, Winnsboro, was critically injured early Wednesday night when an automobile in which he was riding left the highway near Alto and turned over in a nearby field, state police reported.

Mr. Patterson, driver and only occupant of the car, was brought to St. Francis sanitarium here, where he was treated for brain concussion, lacerations of the face, and severe bruises, hospital attaches said.

State police said that Mr. Patterson, traveling salesman for the Southern Candy company, was returning to Winnsboro, when the accident occurred.

His automobile was reported damaged considerably.

RESIGNS

Secretary Ickes today submitted his resignation as interior department cabinet member to President Roosevelt, offering to step out when and if the White House chooses to accept it.

ICKES SUBMITS HIS RESIGNATION

Believes President Should Be Left Free To Recreate Cabinet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt today offering to step out of his interior department post when and if the White House chooses to accept it.

Ickes told his press conference he rejoiced in Mr. Roosevelt's reelection and in offering to resign acted only to give the president a free hand should he desire to make a cabinet change.

Ickes acted similarly after the president's reelection in 1936, as is customary, but not all his colleagues in the cabinet followed suit.

He said he believed that all presidential appointive officials should do as he had.

"I for one," Ickes said, "believe the president should be left free at the beginning of a new administration to reshuffle, recreate or do anything he pleases with his official family, especially in view of the mighty task ahead of him."

Only three of the president's original 1933 cabinet remain—Ickes and Secretaries Hull and Perkins.

There seemed little likelihood that Hull would leave his post at the state department. In circumstances similar to Hull's, with regard to holding jobs of especially current importance, are Secretaries Stimson and Knox.

Secretary Morgenthau gave reporters today a possible indication he expected to remain at the treasury when he spoke of plans he had for asking the next congress for another increase in the national debt limit.

Secretary of Commerce Jones, it was said, probably would not have gone to the trouble of waiting for congress to enact special legislation for him to hold that job as well as the federal loan administrator's, had he regarded the secretaryship as a post of brief tenure.

There was conjecture about Secretary Perkins, whose regime at the labor department coincided with the A. F. L.-C. I. O. split, and there was nothing definite about the future for Agriculture Secretary Wickard. Postmaster General Walker and Attorney General Jackson.

Still on the structure, however, were an automobile and a logging truck.

BOMB STRIKES FAMOUS CHURCH

Several Hundred Persons Go On Singing As Explosive Hits

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—One of the most famous churches in London was hit by a high explosive bomb during a prolonged German air raid on the capital last night.

(Censorship prevented identification of the building by name.)

Several hundred homeless persons usually take shelter in the church during raids and it was crowded with women and children who were singing "Annie Laurie" to a piano accompaniment when the bomb angled down, bursting with an explosion that rocked the crypt and filled it with smoke and dust.

The pianist stopped abruptly but then shouted quickly:

"It's only one of our own shells."

While ambulances rushed to the spot with sirens screaming he started to play again and the refugees went on singing.

A warden in the crypt of the bombed church said that afterwards the occupants of the shelter "went to sleep as though nothing had happened."

"The absence of panic was really remarkable," he said. "The people sang away although their throats were parched with dust from the explosion.

"A little later one of the clergy came into the crypt, said a prayer and cheered the occupants with a few quiet words."

A woman standing at a bus stop just outside the church was killed but there were no casualties in the crypt itself. All the stained glass windows in one side of the church were blown in or damaged and the wall was pitted by bomb fragments.

Pews were covered with dust and debris but the church appeared not to have been seriously damaged, officials said. The bomb fell just outside the door leading to the crypt.

RECREATION SET FOR DRAFTEES

are building recreational buildings for games and parties and library facilities and baseball, football and other athletic fields outside.

"Each camp will have its own motion picture theater—a light-proof circus tent with wooden bleachers to seat several thousand at once. The army motion picture service will supply first-run pictures."

The regular training camps under construction outside Beauregard, Camps Livingston and Claiborne, will be veritable cities with huge sewer systems, hospital facilities for 2,500 to 3,500, and water wells at each camp equivalent to the supply used in the city of Alexandria.

Camps even will have fire departments, with a chief, two assistant chiefs and a staff of 75 or so firemen to man a half a dozen fire engines.

Lieutenant Colonel Ferris C. Standiford of Detroit, assistant chief of staff to General Fish, says an ambitious recreational program has been worked out including boxing, baseball, football and other outdoor sports in which many soldiers may participate at once. Leagues and championships will be developed and prizes offered.

Ladies in town probably will be called upon to aid the military preparedness program insofar as drafting their daughters and cute misses to serve as hostesses for the soldiers at camp and arrange dances.

Trainees may have their own automobiles but hitch-hiking is out, by specific order, and army trucks can't be used for taxi service.

"After all," one officer said, "town is only about five miles from Camp Beauregard. That shouldn't be too far for any soldier to walk."

ROOSEVELT BACK IN WASHINGTON

figures which clinched his reelection, also predicted a big victory for Republican candidates in 1942 when Mr. Roosevelt will be "23 elections" to the good, which two have been added to the total of A. F. of L. unions.

In 1936 the figures were used Mr. Roosevelt 27 to 0. Landon 16 to 0, but in 1940 Willkie got only shaded fifty per cent off the same old list.

F. D. R. TO SPEAK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The White House announced today President Roosevelt would deliver an Armistice day address by radio to the nation at [illegible] CST) Monday.

The announcement said the address would be under the auspices of the American Legion.

of the Roosevelt pluralities but piled up a record-breaking mountain of Republican ballots. Although the count was not yet complete, he already had exceeded the previous Republican high of 21,392,190 which Herbert Hoover received in 1928 in his great "prosperity landslide."

With the last large returns still dribbling in, Mr. Roosevelt had a multitude of affairs awaiting his attention. Problems of foreign policy, plans for greater assistance to Britain and defense program details all promised to shove quickly into the background the election, its interests and controversies.

On these major questions the chief executive was receiving an increasing number of assurances of cooperation and support from the ranks of his erstwhile political foes. To implement these assurances, a post-election keynote of national unity sounded in every section of the country.

Following upon Wendell L. Willkie's telegram of congratulation to Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, Alf M. Landon, Republican 1936 standard bearer, told the country by radio that its job now was to "grin and go back to work."

In Palo Alto, Calif., former President Hoover noted that both Republican Candidate Willkie and Democratic Candidate Roosevelt had "pledged to the utmost national preparedness and to keep out of foreign wars."

"The transcendent duty now," Mr. Hoover said in a statement, "is the full cooperation of everybody in this vital purpose."

In New York, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, a Democratic campaigner to the last ditch for the Willkie cause, declared that "every American should line up solidly behind the president in the interest of the future welfare of our country."

And in Salina, Kas., the flames of a huge bonfire fed symbolically upon all the campaign literature that Boy Scouts could collect.

Along with their promises of support and cooperation, however, the Republicans gave every evidence of functioning vigorously as opposition to the administration on all issues which they may regard as inimical to the country's best interest.

Almost complete returns showed that the strength which the Republicans will command in the new Congress, beginning in January, would be greater in the senate and somewhat less in the house than in the present session. With the outcome of one senate race still in doubt, the Republicans thus far had registered a net gain of four seats for a total of 28 as against 66 held by Democrats in that chamber.

In the house the Democrats had a net gain of five seats, with only five contests still undecided. This gave them a total of 263 members, compared with 218 necessary for a majority. The Republicans had elected 162 members and Progressives 3, Independent Democrats 1 and American Labor 1.

Meanwhile, indications increased that complete official returns on 1940's presidential election, including absentee ballots, probably cast for minor party candidates, would be around double the greatest in history. The record meant that about 4,000,000 new voters had been added to the 1936 total.

Jubilant Democrats were busy making plans for the inauguration of their president for a third term, and Republicans were preparing to leave the department of justice and other executive agencies which they have controlled for the past eight years.

Democrats, however, were not without their problems. Chief among these was the question of what to do about Vice President John N. Garner, who has been mentioned frequently as a possible successor to Secretary Hull in the state department.

Garner, who energetic and unprecedented campaigning refused to admit defeat of the ticket, privately attributed much of the responsibility for the whipping Republicans suffered to President Roosevelt's failure to campaign in the south.

Garner, who has been a power in the democratic party with great influence over its policies of the next four years, has not yet decided what part he would play in the new Congress. Those policies would be set forth, he was expected to say in a statement within a few days. Declining to discuss his future plans, conference Wednesday, he said also that he accepted the election in a spirit of good will and was proud to have led the crusade I did.

In a broadcast earlier he had declared that he and his supporters would continue to work for unity of our people in the completion of our defense effort, in sending aid to Britain and in resistance upon repeal of antagonisms in America—all to the end that the government of free men may continue and may spread again upon the earth."

Currently busy in New York with party organization matters, Willkie looked forward to a well-earned vacation, soon at some place yet to be decided.

In Washington many problems other than those of foreign affairs and defense awaited the president's attention. Some stemmed from election developments.

Mr. Roosevelt himself indicated at Hyde Park Wednesday that renewed efforts to bring together Congress of Industrial Organizations and the American Federation of Labor might be undertaken, perhaps with his enhanced personal influence behind them. This hint of a new labor peace move came when reporters present at the chief executive's dedication of Hyde Park's new postoffice asked for a "story."

Mr. Roosevelt called their attention to signs carried by men in the crowd of onlookers. These said "When Lewis Resigns, Labor Will Have Peace" and "Not Lewis But Unity."

John L. Lewis, president of the C. I. O., is expected to offer his resignation at the organization's convention this month. When he came out for Willkie in the campaign, he announced he would step down if Mr. Roosevelt was reelected.

BELGRADE, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Trustworthy advices from Greece today said that all Germans in Greece had been advised by German diplomatic officials to leave the country at once.

LAW PUBLISHED

MADRID, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A law instituting the "council of Hispanicism" — the control body through which Spain hopes to establish closer ties with Latin-America—was published today in an official bulletin.

The law gives Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner authority to direct the council. He also holds the power to regulate Spanish organizations whose object is cultivation of relations between Spain, Latin America and the Philippines. There are many such organizations in South America.

JONES COMMENTS

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Governor Sam Jones said today that no plans have been formulated for a special session of the legislature in the event of defeat of the administration's financial program embodied in constitutional amendments.

However, administration supporters in the legislature were speculating as to how soon such a session would be called.

On the basis of administration estimates, the state would lose about $2,500,000 by the apparent defeat of the income tax increase amendment. Defeat of a $10,000,000 bond issue, which was indicated, although not conclusively, by returns today, would leave the highway department without funds for construction of new roads.

Returns indicated danger also for a $7,000,000 bond issue to fund a portion of the floating debt which the governor said was inherited from previous administrations.

"No plans can be formulated until the returns are in," Governor Jones said before leaving the capital today to visit the Crowley rice festival. "The returns are too meager at the present time to hazard any guess as to what will be done."

The governor expressed satisfaction at the strong showing of the civil service amendment, which was running ahead. Although the proposal and one for reorganization of the state government were the objects of the principal attack on the amendments during the campaign they were maintaining leads during the early count of the ballots.

Capitol observers felt it would be impossible for the state to operate for two years until the next regular session of the legislature without the income tax revenue. Nearly all the sales tax go out of existence January 1, but the automobile license, which the income tax increase was expected to offset, apparently was retained.

SOUTH AMERICA OPENS PROGRAM

American nations in credit ratings because she never has defaulted on a national obligation, might seek a credit of as much as $100,000,000 from the United States.

Informed sources said the United States political campaign had made Argentine officials cognizant of the scope of possible military and naval cooperation with the United States. They hinted that conferences might find a warmer reception since the reelection of President Roosevelt.

A similar situation exists in Chile, Uruguay, Paraguay and other South American nations.

The new Paraguayan minister to Washington, Dr. Juan Jose Soler, who sails for New York Friday, said in Buenos Aires that his country was anxious to continue the close financial, political and defensive cooperation with the United States begun under the late President Jose Felix Estigarribia.

With his arrival in Washington discussions were expected relative to further United States aid for Paraguay and the possibility of assistance for building an air center for use of the American republics in the event of a threat from abroad.

A diplomatic source in Buenos Aires predicted United States purchases of tin ore from Bolivia, possible routing of a transcontinental rail line through that country as a defense measure and settlement of the Standard Oil expropriation question would be speedily considered now that the United States election is over.

South and Central America and Mexico generally received news of President Roosevelt's reelection with the view that it gave a sturdy endorsement to the "good neighbor" policy.

DRAFT BOARDS PUSH REVISION OF ORDERS

Local draft board officials were still toiling Thursday to complete the revision of the order numbers by the end of the week. It was first hoped that the night complete the work by Wednesday but other matters developed and it will be impossible for the work to be completed and questionnaires be placed in the mail before Tuesday of next week.

All work is expected to be completed by Sunday night and the questionnaires put in the mail Tuesday. On Monday, Armistice day, the board will take a well-earned holiday.

NORMAL WILL STAGE FOUR-ACT COMEDY

NATCHITOCHES, Nov. 7.—(Special)—The Davis Players of Louisiana State Normal College here will present a four-act comedy as a preliminary to the opening of the annual "N" club homecoming celebration, in the auditorium of the Fine Arts building at 8 p.m. Friday.

The play, "The Admirable Crichton" by James M. Barrie, is directed by Miss Thera Stovall, member of the speech faculty, and will be the first to be produced in the new Fine Arts auditorium.

Gwendolyn Sylvest and Garlington Feazel, both of Dodson, and Frank Fragala, Bastrop, are among the cast of characters.

ed Koritza and Argyrocastro, another Albanian town, while Italian bombers smashed at the Greek town of Phlorina with reported heavy casualties ensuing.

A heroic communique by Premier Mussolini's high command disclosed the start of the "big push."

"The Kalamas river has been left behind by our divisions. Our air force has aided land operations with machine-gunning operations, hitting enemy works along the Ioannina-Kalibaki highway, in the Philorina zone and near Lake Presba."

The Kalamas river roughly parallels the Albanian border from five to 15 miles inside Greece, in the northwest.

Belgrade dispatches said that Italian troops had made "small advances" along the Greek west coast, and that their columns were bombed by Greek planes.

Greece's high command acknowledged that Greek forces retreated slightly yesterday at the extreme lower (western) end of the Albanian battlefront, in the Epirus sector along the Ionian sea.

Neutral Yugoslavia took a sharply stronger stand in the Balkan conflict with a government warning that armed action against Greek forces reported as attacks on Y ports territory such as the bombing of Bari, is considered foreign planes. Premier [illegible] said.

In the battle of Britain, Nazi warplanes gave London a "breather" after making their largest night attack of the war, and as Londoners rested, made still dug in mourning for the dead and nursing the injured in the ruins of many buildings.

Soldiers and workers were busy under the rubble of a Southampton building smashed by three German bombs, and crews and experts were [illegible] in a demolished section of Liverpool.

Dispatches from Southampton said that as Berlin RAF planes piled up the attack the Germans increased their attacks on the Hampshire port. Southampton and Portsmouth, naval base, were bombed for the 2nd consecutive night.

2. Destructive attacks on the shipping ports of Southampton and Liverpool as well as Birmingham, Coventry, Great Driffield and Leeming.

Long-range RAF bombers retaliated by attacking the Berlin suburbs of Spandau, the London air ministry reported, while other RAF bombers were dropped on a concentration of shipping" at Cuxhaven, Germany, and on convoys off Den Helder, Holland.

RAF night raiders also carried explosives to German "big Berthas" gun replacements at Cap Gris Nez, the air ministry said.

Berlin asserted that RAF planes which attempted to raid the capital were forced to turn back before they could drop any bombs, but the Nazi high command admitted that attacks "on German territory" killed and wounded several persons.

In the long night assault on London, a cluster of fire bombs sent flames leaping so high they silhouetted the great dome of St. Paul's Cathedral. London's fire-fighters were kept on the jump until long after daybreak.

From the sound of some of the raiders' motors, British observers said they were sure the Italians were taking an increasingly large part in the assaults upon Britain.

Although some persons were killed and injured in London and a number of homes and apartment houses were destroyed, the British government said damage and casualties resulting from the widespread raids were not in general large.

Earlier this morning German long range guns on the French coast opened up and shelled the Dover area for more than two hours.

Soviet Russia, celebrating the 23rd anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution, reaffirmed a policy of armed neutrality. Russia, which in the past 14 months has gained territory from six neighbors, was reported unofficially in Turkey to have withdrawn some troops from the Turkish border as a goodwill gesture.

EDITOR SPEAKS TO LOCAL GROUP

'Be Proud You Are Americans,' DeLoss Walker Declares

"Be proud you are Americans," DeLoss Walker, associate editor of Liberty magazine, said in an address to Town Hall members and their guests Wednesday night in the Northeast Junior College Auditorium. "There is only one America. It's right to want to live better. Prosperity is America's destiny, and the country is beginning to demand a return to prosperity."

Mr. Walker continued in part:

"Prosperity will come from the people, from honest thinking and hard work. It will come from inventions, from elimination of waste, from by-products, from new processes. It will come from larger investments in business, from more and better machines, from greater understanding, and more respect for management in business. And it will be brought by wise men, and will find people planning and saving for the future; not borrowing against it."

"To live, to be prosperous, business must serve more people, serve better, and serve at less cost. Business is not only our bread and butter; it is our hope."

"Government cannot do business. Government was created to protect us while we do our business. People are fast learning that the best we can get out of throwing our business problems in the lap of government is a headache and tremendous debt, which we will all have to pay."

"Business exists only to serve—to satisfy wants and needs; hence, more business means more wealth and happiness for more people. Since business exists solely for the purpose of supplying our wants and needs, it must start by people demanding that their wants and needs be supplied."

"We have the needs, we have the raw materials, we have the technique, we have the men, the tools and machines, we have the financial capital, and we have the power that can get it moving."

"America is our greatest asset. Two hundred and fifty years ago we were a wilderness. We have developed a nation of unparalleled wealth. We have the power to meet our needs."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Wilson Matthews, president of the Monroe Town Hall.

FLYING CADETS BEING SOUGHT

Calling For Applicants; Men Will Receive Pay While Training

The local army recruiting office, located in the Postoffice Building, announced today that the war department is calling for applicants for flying cadets.

"The best aviation training in the world is now available at government expense to a selected group of qualified young citizens as United States army flying cadets," Sergeant H. B. McNemar said. "Army flying training prepares a young man for a career in aviation, and while he is undergoing that training he receives pay at the rate of $75 per month, uniform, dental and medical attention, and board and lodging. He actually earns while he learns. Comparable training is not obtainable elsewhere. The best full-course training available in civilian schools costs from $2,000 to $4,000 and up for tuition alone."

"Upon graduation as a flying cadet the man is tendered a commission as a second lieutenant in the United States army air reserve and becomes eligible for three years of active duty with the regular army air corps under his reserve commission, with the same pay and allowances as an officer of the same grade and length of service on flying duty in the regular army at a minimum total monthly rate of $245.00, when assigned to government [illegible]. During the three-year period [illegible] of active duty there are opportunities [illegible] to compete for appointment as a regular second lieutenant in the regular army air corps.

"If men have not already done so, the war department recommends strongly that you complete your collegiate training." Sergeant McNemar said. "However, in case you are prevented from continuing your studies, successful completion of at least one-half of the necessary credits leading to a degree exempts you from the educational examination for appointment as a flying cadet.

"Young single men between 20 and 26 who have completed at least two years' college work and are in good physical condition are requested to contact the local recruiting office for further particulars regarding this opportunity offered by the government.

"Perhaps men hesitate to apply for the examination due to lack of a full college credit course, but remember the old saying that, 'Nothing ventured is nothing gained.' Now, as never before, every conceivable opportunity is offered by the government to the young man with a will to succeed and make something worthwhile of himself and to attain a goal in life."

ELECTION PROBE IN PENNSYLVANIA

Alleged Violations Are Studied; Party Leaders Called

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A federal grand jury, convened early to investigate alleged violations of election laws in Pennsylvania, called in for questioning today leaders of both major parties in the commonwealth.

Summoned among others to appear before the jury today were Joseph N. Pew, wealthy Republican leader; Republican State Chairman James T. Torrance; Meredith Meyers, Democratic state chairman; Jay Cooke, unsuccessful Republican candidate for United States senator; William Harman, president of the Associated Willkie Clubs of Pennsylvania; Philadelphia Democratic Chairman John B. Kelly, and Albert H. Ladner, state chairman of Republicans for Roosevelt. All were requested to bring records of party finances.

The investigation got underway Wednesday when representatives of the Philadelphia federal reserve bank and 19 other banks appeared before the jury. They brought records of withdrawals in the four or five days immediately preceding Tuesday's election.

Wednesday's session was the first since last Thursday when the jury announced the investigation. The group recessed immediately, a spokesman explained, so as not to interfere with the election.

Last week National Democratic Chairman Edward Flynn during a press conference in New York accused Pew of planning to "buy" the election in Pennsylvania.

Home Guard—Proceed With Caution

In the heat of the election, few people noticed that congress on October 21 passed an act authorizing the setting up of "home guard" units in the states.

The idea, of course, is to provide some sort of a force which could be used as a substitute for the national guard as the guards units go into the federal service and, in many cases, leave the state. It has been congress' thought, evidently, that it would be unwise to leave states without some force which could be called out in case of fire, flood, or natural disaster, of riot or internal disturbance, or of especial sabotage of manufacturing or producing facilities.

The basic idea is probably all right. But any activities of this kind ought to be carried out only in a completely responsible manner. The country wants no amateur vigilantes trooping up and down the land, acting on whatever sort of wild hunch seems to them a good idea at the time. We are not at war, and there is so much the less excuse for any of the acts of terrorism that were perpetrated in 1917-18 in the name of "home-guarding."

Private organizations, no matter how patriotic should not be allowed to organize or support any such forces. They should be public forces, completely organized, trained and controlled by the army, subject as the army is, to proper civilian authority.

In fact, it would not be a bad idea to raise any such force by the draft, just as the regular army is raised. That would insure that home defense, as well as national defense, be entrusted to a cross section of the nation's people, and not overweighted by any economic or political group. It would insure that the burden of such service would be evenly distributed.

Only completely responsible and properly trained officers should be placed in charge and all activities should be subject to control and review by public civilian authority. Only thus will any home guard activity be properly geared to accomplish what it is meant to accomplish, and nothing else.

Wage Administrator Upheld

Refusal of a writ of certiorari by the Supreme Court of the United States establishes the broad authority of the Wage and Hour Administrator to compel production of specified employee records in an investigation of an employer's acts and practices regarding hours of employment, wages paid and classification of workers.

The Montgomery Ward Company had challenged the administrator's power to compel such production without showing reasonable ground for belief that the employer had violated the act. It was contended that the act itself contained no such authorization but that if it did the authorization would constitute unreasonable search and seizure.

The Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals found no merit in the company's claims, which finding is in effect affirmed by the high court's denial of review. Thus the first skirmish over interpretation of the law to come to final adjudication ends in a complete victory for the administrator.

It puts all employers on notice that wage and hour records must be produced when demanded. The high court will next be called upon to pass directly upon the constitutionality of the act itself.

Code For Masters

The traffic fatality toll for pet animals is enormous. It is impossible for any agency to set a definite annual figure because only a small proportion of the cat and dog population is registered, and few deaths of animals are noted on official records. But it has been estimated that the total runs to more than 500,000 a year in the United States. Most of these deaths cannot be helped, since the creatures, however sagacious, have studied no highway safety code. The jaywalking of domestic animals is a continual worry to their masters and to people who drive automobiles.

Owners who know of no way to impress upon dogs the necessity of observing traffic rules and of waiting for the light to turn green might do well to take the matter into their own hands by studying this little list of admonitions:

Train a dog to come to heel instantly when bidden and to remain there.

Never turn a dog out for exercise alone. Whenever possible, give whatever free exercise your dog needs in the quiet byways or in the open fields and keep away from traffic lanes.

Never call a dog from the opposite side of the road.

By following these simple rules you may save your pet's life.

Germanizing The Dead

Probably the thing that will cause Nazism to fail in the end is a certain lack of that last saving grace, humor. We don't mean humor in the crude sense of ability to see a joke, but in the broad connotation of a certain sense of the fitness of things.

In Alsace, pertinent battleground of the German-French game, the Germans are now campaigning to "make the district German once and for all. Alsatian men named Henri, for instance, have to change that name to Heinrich. But not only that. All tombstone inscriptions are also to be in German.

No Nazi will see anything wrong in that. But there are plenty of others left in the world who will, and it is more than possible that it is little stupidities, little obtusities, little callouses over the more tender parts of the spirit, which will some day stop the Nazis where the tanks and turrets failed to stop them.

It is generally true that a campaign argument uttered in an inaudible voice is not worth listening to.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELECTION RESULT

Well, the New Deal is to keep up dealing.

Mr. Roosevelt won not only an election but a life membership.

He is not only the peepul's choice but their Acquired Habit.

He and the voters apparently have an axis.

Although he broke the oldest tradition in American government, busted conventions all over the lot and treated precedents and conventions like picnic leftovers, the electorate pinned the "Good Until Further Notice" sign on him.

He becomes the first president in the nation's history to go after twelve years in the White House and get them.

It looks more and more as if he had won an unbreakable lease.

You could almost change the name of the country to the United States of Roosevelt.

And even those who voted against him have got to hand it to Franklin today. As a public idol he ranks with Babe Ruth, Man o' War, Christy Mathewson, Ty Cobb, the skinless all-bot, the baked Idaho potato, swing music, Clark Gable, the three-decker sandwich and the Cornell backfield.

Wendell Willkie made one of the most heroic campaigns in political history, and had everything on Franklin except the radio manner, but when it was all over it was just another breeze for the "inspector."

Franklin gets four years more at bat, Mrs. Roosevelt gets four years more on the railroads, all the little Roosevelts get four more years on the green light and the Forgotten Man gets four more years in which to test his memory.

John L. Lewis out trying to steal home from second with the bases full.

LaGuardia safe on the hit and run play. Ten runs, fifteen hits, no new lawsuits for assault and battery.

Now that it's all over the American public will take it with its usual good will, forget the harsh words of the campaign and concentrate on the pressing problems of the immediate future, hoping for the best, trusting in God and admitting the futility of trying to beat the best radio voice in the world.

RECIPE FOR A HIT MUSICAL

Fill it full of smut and leers—
It will run for years and years.

If anybody is entitled to the Laugh of the Century it is the Minsky Brothers as they look at the musical shows which are now accepted as the biggest hits on Broadway, and remember how they got jumped on year after year for doing the same things at lower admissions.

READING IS NOT LOOKING AT WORDS

One of our big daily newspapers carried a story about the troubles of the locker man at the New York World's Fair. He could not understand why people could not open and use the lockers without trouble. Yet trouble was what they had and plenty of it. Some failed to open the door at all, some opened and locked it before they put their things into it, some did not know which locker they used and his day was filled with explanations and laments.

"The directions are printed plainly. A child can read them. Yet people do such funny things and give themselves so much trouble. And so many of them, too. You'd be surprised how many of them were fussed up about those keys."

There are thousands of people who read printed matter without really reading it. Recognizing words is one process, getting the meaning out of them is another. If we read without getting the meaning of what we read we are not, in the real sense, reading at all. That's what happened to those people who had trouble with their locker keys.

To begin with they were not attending to what they were reading. Other ideas were in their minds—the place they were going to next, the people they were to meet, the wonders about them—so they snatched at the words and forgot about reading the second and the third time for the meaning of the words. Locks open and shut according to their pattern, not according to human need.

Most of us read a book, a paper, once through and call it a reading. Few of us get the content of the matter at one reading. We must go over the ground a second time, and then, if the matter is at all strange to us, a third time to clear up any hazmers about important points. Many readers stop with the headlines, giving them but a glance, and that habit carried over into other reading brings grief.

I am never deeply concerned about the habits of grown people. They are able to look after themselves and should be allowed to do so. But I am always deeply concerned about the affairs of children, and when I see the teaching of reading becoming more and more of a gesture in the elementary schools of the country I must protest.

Beginners must be taught the rudiments of reading—word recognition, phonics, the meaning of each sentence, the content of the story, the full content expressed in words of their own and in dramatic action wherever possible. No effort and time spent in teaching the complete reading process is too much.

Now it is stylish to have beginners do silent reading. A child who has not yet mastered a reading vocabulary, who has not as yet mastered the power of getting meaning from a printed sentence, is handed a book and told to read to himself. He ought to be reading aloud, telling what he has read, acting it out before others to clarify his own ideas and set the habit of real reading. If he does not learn accuracy, clearness, meaning, expression in his reading he will not be the fast reading, highly-intelligent student in high school and college. Reading is the foundation of all education.

It isn't fair to allow your child to form disagreeable little habits that will make other people dislike him, or her. Be guided by Angelo Patri's booklet, "Annoying Habits." Send for it, enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care the Monroe News-Star, Postoffice Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

DOORKEEPER

Washington Daybook

—By Jack Stinnett—

WASHINGTON—The matter of defense always is a subject for chuckles. For example:

A fresh lad came to the airport the other night to see the fun. He showed off. The plane landed safely, anyway, but the lad was sitting on the ground and muttering.

"Where was that plane supposed to be going?"

The ground explained but asked why the question. The lad muttered: "Oh, I don't know. I just wondered. I'm a good guesser. One of my hobbies."

"Do you want to guess what's in my pocket, better to do your guessing about what's going to happen to the plane. Take off and land."

The man said he didn't see anything wrong with that. And he started for a concession stand to buy a package of gum. He came back to find the lad muttering and the ground crew trying to figure out how the plane got down. Finally they decided it was Mr. Knudsen.

And it was. Knudsen—William S.—who may be defense production chief soon, he's keeping a low profile at headquarters in the Federal Reserve Building, but is just as apt to give the guards off kilter at the airport when he's relaxing.

Writers Must Write?

He came in to fix my typewriter. He may have been 20. He looked husky enough. We talked of selective service.

"Funny thing," he said. "I had my stretch in the regular service of the army and took out in the naval reserve. When they called up the reserves the other day I thought I'd better go down to headquarters and find out what it was all about.

"I went and they asked me a lot of questions. Finally they said, 'What are you doing now?' And I said, 'Oh, I'm a typewriter repairman.' Boom—it was over. I was out.' And right away they told me to go back to my job and forget about the navy. We don't want you. You're in a key industry.'

"I can't figure it out. I thought this fellow was just teasing me a little bit, but do you know that he's been nearly three weeks now and I haven't heard a word from the navy yet."

Don't Like The Water

One of the stories coming from travelers returning from France is the new nickname with which the French fondly (?) regard Uncle Sam. The French have christened the Nazi troops lined up along the English channel waiting for invasion of England. The French call them "plongeurs."

Here's the way it was explained to me. "The French say that the Nazis are very brave and they have a very high and they are willing to face almost anything on land but the Channel makes them sick. But when it comes to getting out in that channel and getting back shot from under them and going down with nothing more to say about it than 'ping ging,' they don't want any part of it."

One Misspelled Word

This is a case of fiddling while the newspaper boys burned. At the army the other day it was announced that an important statement would be released at 12 noon. The newsmen notified their desks and gathered around by the scores when noon came. Two hours later, the irritated, restless, hungry press was handed the belated announcement.

One of the boys asked a stenographer what had happened. She looked both ways and then whispered: "We misspelled the word 'airport' and had to do the whole darn thing over again."

The famous Butterfield stage route of frontier days extended 2,759 mile, from San Francisco to St. Louis by way of Los Angeles, Yuma and Tucson, Ariz., and El Paso, Tex. The trip was made in 25 days.

Jimmie Fidler In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7.—Picked up a copy of "Gulliver's Travels" the other eve and fell to musing what a hellish shock poor old Lemuel would have been in for had he, via some magic, landed in Hollywood instead of Lilliputia.

Here, in our crazy quilt society, he would have found the stellar wife of Johnny Doe still wearing her maiden name of Mary Moe, and, further to confuse anyone who might be puzzled regarding her marital status, gadding feverishly about with other swains while her equally famous husband deports himself in night clubs with other ladies of the major cause in Hollywood's social circle being the exchange between husband and wives of new spouses calculated to revive their interest in their mates. He would have found movie couples posing ... and ... wives ... for ... orders ... from 5 to 7 ... Mr. F. D. M. ... a talking feature ... the ... off. ... Mr. Knudsen.'

And ... William S.—who ... he's keeping ... questions in the Federal Reserve Building, but is just as apt to give the guards off kilter at the airport when he's relaxing.

Today I saw a pre-release showing of "Little Men" and watched Johnny, again in his old soldier's uniform, play a scene in which he tells a group of youngsters one of his funniest jokes, but without drawing a single snicker. "What's the matter?" he asks, puzzled, "isn't it funny?" "It might have been," is the terse retort, "ten years ago!" I don't think Johnny Burke had to fake the expression of hurt the camera recorded.

M'GUIRE GUILTY IN DEATH CASE

Jury Deliberates 45 Minutes In Fatal Shooting Of Bennett

Manning C. McGuire, charged with manslaughter in the shooting of Bennie Bennett September 6 during an argument in a West Monroe saloon, was found guilty by a jury yesterday after noon. He was remanded to jail for sentence.

The jury deliberated about 45 minutes. The trial of McGuire was opened Monday afternoon and the case placed in the hands of the jury at noon yesterday.

A polling of the jury was requested by counsel for defense and it was found that a verdict of guilty was arrived at by a 11 to one count.

Perry Franklin, negro, appeared before Judge Gaston Wedderburn to enter a plea of guilty as a fourth offender charged with auto theft.

Judge Garrett sentenced the defendant to serve the remainder of his life in the state penitentiary, which sentence is provided for under the state law.

J. F. Armstrong, negro, charged with involuntary homicide, entered a plea of guilty and received sentence of one year in jail, with credit allowed for time already served.

In the case of J. S. Maples, charged with crime against nature, counsel for defense appeared and filed a motion for a hearing to determine the mental status of the defendant.

Counsel for the defendant in the case of L. J. Melton and W. D. Dark, charged with bribery, filed a motion for a bill of particulars and Judge Garrett set November 12 as date of hearing.

Jurors called were dismissed and court adjourned until next week.

WILL FOR UNITY IS MANIFESTED

Feeling Evident In Editorials Of Pro-Republican Papers

(By Associated Press)

A will toward national unity manifested itself yesterday as the aftermath of the bitter, turbulent campaign which resulted in President Roosevelt's election to serve a tradition-smashing third term as the nation's chief executive.

It was evident in the editorials of newspapers which had strongly supported Wendell L. Willkie, the defeated Republican nominee, in the statements of many of the country's leading men, in the usual exchange of messages between victor and vanquished and in a radio address made by Willkie early in the day.

Mr. Roosevelt, the winner and still "the champ," was in by another sweep of the electoral college. Nine states remained in the Willkie column. The president was credited tentatively with 468 of 531 electoral votes with the count settled in all but a few states. The popular vote, with many ballots yet to be tallied in both states, was much closer. It stood at 25,051,747 for Roosevelt and 21,157,932 for Willkie.

Events Of Interest Crowd The Calendar

Town Hall Lecture And Reception For Dr. And Mrs. Smith Events Of Interest

After being in politics up to our eyebrows for weeks and weeks it is nice to settle down again and enjoy the things that make life so very pleasant these November days.

It is especially pleasant and in fact a great privilege to listen to a silver tongued orator such as DeLoss Walker, dwell on such a glowing subject as "America." His talk Wednesday night at Northwest Junior college was a thrilling one and ended in a heated debate between the audience and the speaker who was called upon to answer such questions as are upon the lips of every patriotic American these days:

Mr. Walker said: "Opportunity is another word for America. It was what the Pilgrim forefathers sought when they were looking for the right to worship as they pleased. It is what the tens of millions of immigrants were seeking when they came to our shores from the Old World. It's the hour of which our students are dreaming. But it is the thing that millions are missing, and failing to understand, in these troublesome days. Opportunity comes in the form of trouble, and our preparedness to meet it. We were endowed with brains or intelligence which can be developed and used in solving these problems; and there are problems everywhere, and we still have mental capacity. So many are not trying to solve their problems, but are merely trying to evade them or get others to solve them. Nature decrees that each must solve his own, and punishes those who refuse."

While a vast number of Monroe citizens were listening to the thrilling talk delivered by Mr. Walker, members of the West Monroe Methodist church were endeavoring to express their deep appreciation of the splendid work accomplished by their pastor, Dr. C. Karlos Smith and Mrs. Smith, at a reception arranged in their honor in the church parlors.

The event was a memorable one with a spirit of camaraderie manifested on every side. The evening climaxed with a glowing talk delivered by Mr. R. M. McClendon who endeavored to express the sentiments of Dr. Smith's parishioners, all of whom are deeply appreciative of the willingness of service he has portrayed on every occasion. They appreciate also the joy Dr. Smith always expresses in giving service without thought of reward. His understanding of other men, their weaknesses and failings, and the joy of lending a helping hand, has endeared him to young and old alike.

Dr. Smith responded to Mr. McClendon's address in characteristic manner, including Mrs. Smith in his talk he said:

"We are deeply moved by this expression of your appreciation of our services and pray that together we stand upon the threshold of the greatest year in the history of our great church. If our services with you have made it possible to bring men, women, boys and girls to a deeper appreciation of those things which are spiritual, then our efforts and our services have not been in vain. We pledge you now that if we are returned to this pastorate we will continue to do all possible to make their church the greatest spiritual force in this city and community.

"The success of a church depends on two forces—first of all that great spiritual force which comes only from Jesus Christ our Saviour and second that united force which comes from a desire upon the part of the pastor and people to work together in the service of the cause of Christ and His church."

Mrs. Smith was presented with an exquisite bouquet of flowers as an expression of appreciation for the work she is accomplishing daily. She was assured that her work was just as valuable and just as necessary as that of her husband.

Mrs. Smith, deeply moved, strived to express her gratitude for this expression of love, in a charming little talk.

The remainder of the evening, charmingly informal, was spent around the supper table, banked high with beautiful flowers.

Mrs. Dessalee Ryan Dudley of Battle Creek, Mich., international president of Altrusa Clubs, was the guest of honor at an informal reception in the home of Mrs. Elmese Brice Tuesday evening.

The evening was delightfully spent in Mrs. Brice's flower adorned home with Mrs. Dudley the central figure. She discussed in gracious manner the problems confronting Altrusa Club members and gave them valuable advice and constructive criticism.

She urged as many local members as possible attend the international conference to be held in Roanoke, Va., during the month of July.

Mrs. Dudley was accompanied to Monroe by Miss Cora Butler and Mrs. Nancy Nettles, members of the Shreveport club.

During the coffee hour, during which delicious refreshments were served, the hostess presented Mrs. Dudley with a corsage of gardenias.

Miss Marie Bolton entertained at dinner complimentary to Miss Frances Aycock, a much feted bride-to-be whose engagement was recently announced.

Miss Bolton received her guests in the flower banked reception suite of her home and later presided over the beautifully appointed, silver and crystal serviced dinner table in the dining room. A plaque of white chrysanthemums encircled with pink tapers in crystal candlesticks, formed the central decor.

Following the serving of the four-course dinner, demi-tasse was served in the living room from a silver service presided over by the hostess.

Miss Bolton took this opportunity to present Miss Aycock with a gift of china in her chosen pattern.

A class in music appreciation has just been organized at Northeast Junior College under the leadership of Harry Lemert, member of the college faculty. Considerable interest is portrayed in musical circles over this announcement as the course is designed for the average layman and teaches one how to listen to music, including radio programs, the classics, and both vocal and instrumental music.

Members of the Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club who motored down to New Orleans to attend the regional conference were delightfully entertained at tea at the governor's mansion in Baton Rouge en route. Hostess on this occasion was Governor Jones' sister, Miss Febe Jones of DeRidder, who is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. J. H. Sheeler of Baton Rouge and Mrs. J. B. Murtagh of New Orleans are the guests this week of Mrs. E. D. Ory.

Between a world torn by economic strife and war and the children of America, Clare Tree Major's Children's Theater of New York stands as a bulwark, declared by parents and educators to be making an invaluable contribution to the lives and future possibilities of all children who come under the enchanting influence of its plays.

The Barksdal Faith Parent-Teacher Association in bringing the Clare Tree Major Children's Theater to Monroe in its gay and imaginative productions of childhood's favorites, "Seven Wishes," "Alice in Wonderland," "Robin Hood," and "Hans Brinker," is doing more than the average unit of the kind is attempting, it is a wholehearted organized effort upon which all parents now are much impressed by their results.

"At a time when the world is so filled with fears and hatred," said Mrs. Chatham president of the sponsoring group, "the children's theater developed and presented by Clare Tree Major and her Children's Theater do more than entertain—they bring to boys and girls a happy release, an escape from a world gone mad.

"Parents just now are naturally worried and nervous over national and world affairs. Mrs. Crawford contained in this state of mind they cannot help but pass on many of these feelings to their children, who themselves are depressed and not a little frightened.

"The minds of our children need to be protected from the constant shock of world events. They should be protected against accepting conditions as they now exist and be enabled to see beyond the terrible things that are happening so that they can realize there are many fine things possible in life for them. Nothing is more tragic than a stunted childhood, the careless frustration of youthful dreams and aspirations.

"In Europe the lives of millions of children have been blasted. In America, during this difficult period, we must see to it that our children receive proper guidance. Clare Tree Major, years ago, foresaw this need, and provided her Children's Theater as one of the answers."

Members of the local Altrusa Club who were privileged to attend the Seventh District Conference at Austin, Tex., October 25 and 26 were: Mrs. Maude Golson, Mrs. Elmese Brice, Miss Clydie Cox, Miss Bernice McCoy.

They were accompanied by Miss Madge O'Sullivan, a member of the Shreveport club.

The entertainment included a sunset dinner at the Austin Woman's Club, a tour of the city, tea at the governor's mansion, and a formal dinner party at Driskill Hotel.

Mrs. Dessalee Ryan Dudley, international president, from Battle Creek, Mich., was an outstanding speaker.

It was voted upon that next year's conference be held in Houston, Tex.

Invitations have been issued by the Ouachita Valley Historical society to hear the talk, "The Route of DeSoto Through the Ouachita Valley," to be delivered by Miss Sallie Humble, Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the criminal court room of the Ouachita parish courthouse. Mrs. Jennie O'Kelly Mitchell is president of the society and Mrs. Elizabeth McCranie is secretary.

Mrs. Fannie Brunch Roberts of New Willard, Tex., is the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Y. A. Roberts, 416 Howard street.

Mrs. Catherine Baron of Alton, Ill., is the guest of Mrs. Dennis Osborne at her suburban home in West Monroe.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

by Rita Mehler Manson

YESTERDAY: Lynn Britton, beautiful American girl destined so far as she can tell to marry the Prince of Shani Lun, is at present dodging Chinese revolutionists and trudging across the plain afoot. Temu Darin, her "escort," has lost his plane in a storm, and now must guard Lynn and arrange to send their unwelcome companion, Peggy Telford, back to the coast.

Chapter 25

Strange Blessing

LYNN turned to Temu.

"Do you expect to walk Peggy and me all the way to Delun?" He had relieved Chan of some of his burden.

"I hope I won't walk you all the distance. Your friend is leaving the first chance I have to send her back."

Lynn's shoulders squared. "I'd like to see you send her and keep me without unpleasant consequences to your government. I notice you don't always secure your own way."

He agreed. "If I had my way now, we wouldn't be here. But, since we are here—" He looked at her and smiled. She understood; he intended to make the best of it.

Peggy caught up with them in her absurd moccasins and hung to Temu's arm for a while. They passed a woman and her old mother, the latter running along on little goatlike feet which were bound in remembrance of the "good old days." They carried their possessions in bundles on their backs and beside almost of them a blind girl carrying a younger child pick-a-back.

After crossing the wide plateau they came to a ridge of green hills. Temu stopped a tall red-robed lama riding a yak and talked. The priest lowered his head, mumbling the little words of prayer from under him and began clapping the short green grass at the edge of the trail.

The lama explained that his monastery was located up a side canyon a bit and he invited Temu and his party to take refuge within the religious enclosure. The monks were Mongols and Tibetans, good fighters when they needed to fight and protected by the fact that the Mongols usually were inclined to leave them alone.

They could send a fast messenger on to the Chinese military stronghold at Tsing Hai, the lama urged. Temu would be honored by the monastery would be blessed by their presence.

Lynn suspected that Temu did not trust the lama, but the priest's pleasant behavior won them. They stopped at the first village and the lama sent a messenger ahead to announce their coming.

Lynn told him she was glad he had learned one thing at least.

"As you please, my lady," he smilingly answered.

The monastery was built with their flat roofs and ladders for mounting to them climbed the canyon side in a way that reminded Lynn vaguely of a Pueblo village, except for the surrounding wall.

They were taken to an apartment in the grand lama's house near the upper wall, overlooking the rest of the inclosure. The several rooms opening into each other were clean and bare except for the stove, with its usual sputtering table, and the altar spaces with their images and offering vessels.

In the largest room was a table set with food. The grand lama served them with tea, Chinese cakes, pickled bean pods, and dates. As he left, he knelt before Lynn and asked if she would bless him.

"Touch him with something," Temu suggested.

Happiness

SHE picked up Peggy's parasol and touched him lightly. The simple, devout, old fellow turned and went out, his face shining with an inner light as if indeed he had been blessed.

Temu watched Lynn's eyes follow him, a strangely gentle expression on her face. "You see what it means to be the Tara," he said in a low voice. "To be loved by an untold number of people and remembered in their prayers, never criticized, never questioned, never thought of except in love and devotion."

"It is wonderful," she admitted softly. "But I am quite sure that I am not worthy of anything like that."

"You are not the judge."

Chan came in from the meal he and Bula had eaten in their own room and set about heating a basin of water. Bula followed, and in a corner brought out his knitting. The head lama returned with a living Buddha, a boy of seven or eight who had a boil on his wrist. Temu lanced the infection and bandaged it.

"He was born my cousin," the lama explained. "But he is the reincarnation of my elder brother who died eight years ago." Tears came to the old man's eyes. "I could not bear to see him die a second time."

"We'll take good care of this," Temu assured him, "and it will soon be healed." He turned and translated to the girls what the priest had said.

Lynn looked around at the people in the room, Peggy, Chan, Temu, Bula, the high lama, the little Buddha, and a grease-grimed attendant monk who had come in with the latter two.

"I wonder," she asked in a mischievous mood, "if any of my former relatives are present?"

Peggy giggled. "Bula may be a husband from a former incarnation. He stares at you adoringly enough."

"If he were a husband he would probably be trying to order me around."

"You've said it!" Peggy returned with heartfelt agreement.

Temu laughed. "You American girls! You need to be reborn Hindus some time and taught proper reverence and appreciation for husbands." He cleared the room of the rest of the men.

"Perhaps that's already happened to us once too often," Lynn retorted maliciously, "and the worms have turned."

"Two worms!" he hooted.

Peggy burst into tears. "I want to go home!" she sobbed.

"We'll send you back as soon as possible," Temu promised.

"A night's sleep will do you good," Lynn assured her, "and I should think a bath'd be more nothing more for a tub than a teapot."

Chan managed to find a copper kettle and fill it with hot water. Many soft, padded quilts of Chinese satin were brought in to make a comfortable bed. Lynn tucked Peggy into her cot.

"I suppose I owe you the best night's sleep I've had in years," Peggy admitted.

"For a while," Peggy mused.

"Peggy, you've got to get over that nervousness!"

Peggy turned her face to the wall and whimpered. "I want to get out of here. I want to go home. And I don't care what you say, I don't like you for a friend."

Lynn laughed and gave her a resounding kiss. "If you object strongly enough, I'll go home and leave you here alone. Or should I?"

Peggy sniffed. "I suppose you'll have to take me with you. I'm afraid to stay here."

"That's that," said Temu. Peggy crowded up. Lynn looked grave.

They were eating breakfast of tea and little cylinders of oaten bread baked by Chan on a stick over the coals. The abbot had sent them butter and dried fruits. Peggy turned to Temu.

"Now, what are you going to do?" she demanded.

"Whatever can be done," he answered lightly. "First, put a fresh dressing on Lynn's shoulder."

"Will it leave a scar?" Lynn asked, trying to see the wound with a hand mirror.

"I think not, it's coming along splendidly."

"How did it happen that these lamas took us in?" asked Peggy. "I thought women weren't allowed inside monastery walls."

"It depends on the individual monastery," Temu explained. "This one belongs to the Red sect, the unreformed. The monks may entertain their women relatives and friends. Some have wives."

He rose. "The lamas tell me that refugees are beginning to arrive here to the monastery. Many of them are sick or injured. Lynn, you can help me if you will. Mrs. Telford, some of the sights are rather horrible. You had better stay away."

"I'll try to get some more sleep," said Peggy. "I wish I could sleep until I get back to America."

"We'll be back by noon," he promised, and accompanied Lynn down the worn stone steps that led to the levels below.

COAT-FASTENED SLENDERIZER

PATTERN 8828

Isn't this a marvelous season for those who take women's sizes? Of course a dress like 8828 is always smart, one of the very best daytime classics. But it is particularly good in a mode which exalts tailored fashions, and emphasizes column-slim lines. You have to be somewhat filled out in order to wear this style, and if you have any curves at all, you look wonderful in it! The skirt is almost straight, which is very new, and the bodice is just enough gathered to create a becoming, high bustline. The shoulders are correctly squared.

The beauty of a design like this, and one reason why you'll repeat it many times over, is that it's a home dress or a sunabout, according to the material in which you make it up. For home, choose percale or chambray, for sun, sport rayon or jersey, with single buttons and narrow leather belt to match.

Pattern No. 8828 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, short sleeves, requires 4 1/4 yards of 39-inch material without nap, long sleeves, 4 3/4 yards.

CHILE CLAIMING ANTARCTIC AREA

Investigations Establish Presence Of Quantities Of Coal

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Chile hoped to assure herself of participation in any future development of Antarctica, informed sources said today in explanation of her official claim to all Antarctic territory between 53 and 90 degrees west longitude.

The Chilean ministry of foreign affairs in making the claim said "scientific investigations have established the existence in the Antarctic of enormous quantities of coal which, although of a poor grade, constitutes the greatest reserve in the world."

The ministry pointed out that explorers declare it not unlikely that petroleum will be found there. None of it is found within Chile's boundaries.

Included in Chile's claim to Hearst Land, claimed by the United States by Lincoln Ellsworth in the flight over Antarctic regions in 1935.

The Chilean foreign ministry declared that the United States was not claiming any of the territory in Gun Cruhen, Antarctica, and pointed out that Russia apparently was in that area purely agreeable.

The Chilean delegation to the recent Havana conference reserved the right to claim Antarctic areas, the ministry added.

NATION'S ELECTORS WILL MISS TRIP TO CAPITAL THIS TIME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—After all the vote-counting, the electoral college turned out today to be a correspondence school.

The only sessions will be held December 16 in the various state capitals, and the 531 electors will send their votes to Washington by registered mail. Congress will tabulate the letters on January 6, and on January 20 Mr. Roosevelt actually will be sworn in for his third term.

The electoral college used to get a trip to Washington after bygone elections, but in 1864 congress decided its duties were too routine to warrant the fare.

SICK AND TIRED

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Walter J. Black, publishing house president, said Wednesday that as a result of the president's re-election he would give a 10 per cent salary increase to each of his 50 employes.

"I'm sick and tired of the way business men talk and act about Franklin Roosevelt when most of them have thrived under him just as I have," he said.

BETTY GETS CHANCE AFTER LONG WAIT

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Betty J. J. J. (they stand for Jean Jane Jan Junor) Jones, pretty film-struck owner of a 25,000-acre ranch near Arizona's Grand Canyon, is a step up from a stand-in.

After a year and a half of standing in for various actresses, Miss Jones won a release from her present job of relieving Swedish Actress Ingrid Bergman to take her first role before a camera, that of a nurse, in the same picture, "Legacy."

Miss Jones, a sister-in-law of Comedian Oliver Hardy, has continued managing her ranch at long range through hurried inspection visits.

WISCONSIN PROVES ITS INDIVIDUALISM

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Citizens of Wisconsin proved to the nation that they were exponents of rugged individualism in electing a Democrat, a Progressive and a Republican to major offices.

President Roosevelt, Senator Robert La Follette, Progressive, and Republican governor Julius Heil were all returned to office, but it was the first time that all three were before the electorate in the same election.

The Central Daily News, organ of the Chinese government, said it welcomed continuation of a strong American policy in the far east and urged the United States and Soviet Russia to collaborate with China in administering "a final blow" to Japan.

NATIONAL LEADER SPEAKS AT SCHOOL

WINNSBORO, Nov. 7.—(Special)—W. E. Price, Charlotte, N. C., chairman of Sunday school of the Presbyterian General Assembly, spoke at the Sunday School Institute held in the Winnsboro Presbyterian church.

Other speakers were Dr. Robert M. McGehee, Alexandria, Dr. John L. Fardy and Dr. Patrick H. Carmichael, both of Richmond, Va.

The Winnsboro Presbyterian church is one of seven churches in the state to conduct the institute, planned to boost Sunday school enrollments.

WAKE UP YOUR OWN LAXATIVE FLUID

And Maybe You, Too, Will Feel Like "Happy Days Are Here Again"

Do you suffer from constipation? Do you suffer from fatty indigestion below the belt or sick headache or biliousness due to constipation? Do you feel cranky from being constipated? If so, you may need to buck up the flow of your natural laxative fluid with Carter's Little Liver Pills. Try them according to directions. These pills, made of two simple vegetable medicines, have doubled the flow of this laxative juice in some people as proved by medical tests. When two pints of this laxative fluid flows through our bowel every day, the alimentary canal of the flesh due to constipation may go away. Then many of us may feel like "Happy Days Are Here Again." OKLAHOMA'S REYNOLDS LEADS GROUND GAINERS

SOPHOMORE IS IN FIRST PLACE, FIGURES REVEAL

Total Season Yardage Establishes Him As Top Rookie Of Year

By Gail Fowler

SEATTLE, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Sophomore Jimmy Reynolds of Oklahoma A. and M. is right back where he was four weeks ago—in first place among the nation's gridiron ground-gaining leaders.

Figures released by the American Football Statistical Bureau today show that Reynolds turned full speed ahead to rise again to first in total offense—gains rushing and passing. His season total of 852 yards made him the leading rookie back of the year.

Statistically, he displaced Michigan's Tom Harmon, leader the previous two weeks, both in total offense and as a "workhorse." Harmon was idle last Saturday but still ranks second with 833 yards.

Reynolds, tenth among the rushers, has packed the ball 147 times and thrown 56 passes for 203 total plays, comparing with the 1939 high at this point of 177 total offensive plays by Ernie Lain of Rice.

Johnny Knolla of Creighton, whose team lost to the Oklahoma Aggies, 20-14 last week, ranks third at 832—just a yard behind Harmon.

For the first time, one of the Cornell classy backs moved up among the elite when Hal McCullough jumped from 12th to fourth, with 805 yards. McCullough ranks second to Harmon in average yards per game, his 161 comparing with Harmon's 167.

McCullough also has the highest pass completion average—.705. He has completed 31 of 44, with one interception, for 664 yards or an average per pitch of 15.09 yards, which is also high in that classification.

Rushing leader of the week is Al Ghesquiere of Detroit who has carried the ball 87 times for 617 yards. Dave Allerdice of Princeton still leads the passers with 51 completions. Owen Price of Texas Mines again heads the punters with a 45.15 yard average, 26 punts. Jack Jennings of Oklahoma retains pass-snatching honors with 19 for 252 yards.

The leaders:

Total offense—After Reynolds, Harmon, Knolla and McCullough, come Jack Jacobs, second last week, 794, Ghesquiere, Detroit, 793; Gil Salcedo, Texas Mines, 739; Paul Christman, Missouri, 738; Bill Dudley, Virginia, 716, and Price, Texas Mines, 700.

Jim "Sweet" LaLanne of North Carolina is 11th, and research shows that of the top four underclassmen of 1939, all four—Knolla, LaLanne, Harmon and Christman, have returned to top ranking. And Harmon is 91 yards farther along this year than last. He had gained 742 yards up to this time in 1939 compared to his present 833.

Rushing offense—Ghesquiere, Detroit, 617; Tony Gallovich, Wake Forest, third last week, 585; Harmon, Michigan, first last week, 580; LaLanne, North Carolina, 497; Bob Westfall, Michigan, 491.

Pass offense—Allerdice leads on the basis of unofficial figures with 51 completions in 102 attempts. Then comes Jacobs, Oklahoma, 41 of 79; Bill Sewell, Washington State, 39 of 80, with figures missing on his brief appearance against Idaho last week; Christman, Missouri, 39 of 95 for the high yardage figure of 711, and Hal Hursh, Indiana, 37 of 81. Christman surrendered his honors as the "throwingest" passer to Allerdice, the latter's 103 tosses being tops. Christman only threw three passes against New York University last week, but they totaled 95 yards and three touchdowns, which should be par for the course.

Punting—After Price comes Jacobs of Oklahoma, who booted nine punts for a 52.30 average against Nebraska last week, most of them quick kicks, bringing his season average for 26 punts to 47.65; Glenn Dobbs, Tulsa, first last week, is third at 45.61, followed by Dick McGowen, Auburn, 43.19, and McClung, Colorado, 42.89.

Pass receiving — After Jennings comes Humbert, Richmond, 17 caught for 265 yards; Phil Roach, Texas Christian, 16 for 134; Steve Lach, Duke, 15 for 220, and Snuffy Smith, U. C. L. A., 14 for 228.

WILL DEFEND TITLE HERE

Jack Curtis, Vicksburg, Miss., neck-twister, will defend his junior light heavyweight crown here tonight in a wrestling match with Gorilla Grubmeyer at the local arena.

CURTIS DEFENDS TITLE AT ARENA

Garilla Grubmeyer Will Try To Regain Junior Light Heavy Belt

Monroe wrestling fans will again have the privilege of witnessing a championship grappling card at the Monroe arena tonight when Gorilla Grubmeyer attempts to regain the junior light heavy weight crown from Jack Curtis.

Curtis, a Vicksburg Miss., neck-twister, captured the belt from the Gorilla two weeks ago in one of the roughest bouts ever staged in a local ring.

Grubmeyer was forced to meet Gus Kallio before Curtis would give him a return match. This the Gorilla did last Thursday, winning in two straight falls when Gus missed a flying tackle and hurt his shoulder.

Curtis, a lover of the scientific wrestling style, beat Grubmeyer at his own game in their match, dishing out more rough stuff to him than he could take. Curtis also took a bad going over, but was still able to receive the congratulations of the fans, who stood up and yelled for him to win almost the entire time of the bout. The Gorilla, on the otherhand, was in groggy condition, having a lot of trouble standing after being the victim of Curtis' "question mark" hold.

The semi-final match on this card will bring together Allen Parker and Buck Davidson. Davidson, a popular grappler among the Monroe fans, is a speed merchant, who can be clean or rough as the mood strikes him. Last week, he and Chief Thunderbolt of the Sioux Indian tribe, put on a ding-dong roughhouse from start to finish, even tearing Referee Butch Martin's shirt and trousers.

Parker is a veteran of the ring, and appeared here several months ago. He states that he is in much better condition now than at any time in his career.

Both bouts will be for the best two falls to win with the main event having an hour and a half time limit and the semi-final an hour time limit. Butch Martin will again be the third man in the ring.

The average journey per passenger on American railroads is 50.2 miles.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Cornell, at 1-10, will be the year's shortest-priced favorite against Yale Saturday. . . . Just the same, the boys from Syracuse (who played both) say Georgetown would beat Cornell. And how's that for leaping on a bandwagon? . . . Only scar Joe Louis carries around was received when his brother crowned him with a hoe during an argument in an Alabama cotton patch. . . . Mrs. Leo Durocher plenty worried because she hasn't heard from "The Lip" since he went on the first hunting trip of his life in Utah two weeks ago. . . . Dick Harlow says Duke and Penn would be included on any "first ten" teams he named.

HEX DEPARTMENT

Ken Overlin believes not even the devil can jinx him. . . . His first fight with Steve Belloise was Ken's 13th start in his 13th year of fighting—and all of you remember what damned near happened. . . . Now, the rematch has been scheduled for December 13—which is only Friday the 13th!

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Chuck Collins, who played end at Notre Dame during the "Four Horsemen" era and later was head coach at North Carolina, is recovering from T. B. in Chicago. . . . Gabe Paul, secretary of the Cincinnati Reds, is having himself a fine old time cabling his friends from Havana to join him for dinner—the next night. . . . Give Hank Greenberg a nice hand for winning that most valuable player award. . . . George Latka, coast lightweight, who held N. B. A. Champ Sammy Angott to a draw, is a top student of business administration at San Jose State. . . . The football Giants have sent Grenny Lansdell, who carried Southern California to the Rose Bowl in 1938, back to the farm for seasoning.

ROMANCE DEPT.

Attention, co-eds: Love plays for Illinois; Spendlove for Utah; Loving for Illinois and Younglove for Washington. . . . And Iowa State has a Darling; Centenary, an Angel; Rice a Posey, and Washington and Lee, a Truehart. . . . Get going, sisters.

JIM-JAM

Here's a name to end all names-is-names: Up at North Dakota U. a couple of years ago, they had a back named Tin Yan Jim-On.

FOR CRYING OUT LOUD

Louis vs. Al McCoy for the title. Good grief; if Joe hurdles that one, the least they can do is give him a return match with Paychek or a shot at unknown Winston. . . . Those Arkansas Razorbacks take the cake. So far they've won every other game and have failed to score on the "even" Saturdays. . . . Got any hockey players to sell, trade or give away? Get in touch with Lou Giffels, manager of the Buffalo club. . . . Guess who's leading the drive to have Fritzie Zivic declared the sports figure who did the most to publicize Pittsburgh this year? That's right—Billy Conn. . . . Mike Jacobs will present boxing rings to a half dozen military camps.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Kit Larson, Norfolk Virginian-Pilot: "Army is reported after Carl Snavely of Cornell. . . . For the signal corps, no doubt."

JOE LOUIS DEFENDS TITLE DECEMBER 16

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Joe Louis will defend his world's heavyweight championship against Al McCoy, New England and Canadian titleholder, at the Boston Garden December 16, it was announced Wednesday by Promoter Mike Jacobs. Jacobs will release Louis from his contract for this 15-round bout, which will be promoted by Rip Valenti.

The fight will be Boston's first heavyweight championship.

Louis' last title defense was on June 21, when he knocked out Arturo Godoy of Chile in the eighth round.

J. KIMBROUGH RUNS INTO SOME LITTLE TROUBLE

Stanford Player Giving Texan Tight Run For All-American

By Herb Barker

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—John Alec Kimbrough's bid for an all-America football berth for the second year in succession is running into unexpected serious opposition, most particularly from Stanford's great fullback, Norman Standlee.

Fullbacks are extraordinarily plentiful this season but Standlee and Kimbrough certainly rate at or close to the top on anybody's list.

Although not quite as spectacular as he was a year ago, Kimbrough once more is the pace-setter for the Texas Aggies, currently undefeated and heading in the general direction of another unbeaten season and another Southwest conference title.

Despite massed defenses, Jarring John is up to his old line-smashing tricks, catching passes, serving as an effective blocker when someone else is carrying the ball, playing brilliantly on defense and generally proving a scourge to foe opposition.

Standlee, by the same token, has been a major factor in Stanford's stunning rise. Almost as big as Kimbrough at 212 and extremely fast, Standlee has been a consistent ground-gainer all season as well as one of the best kickers in the far west.

Against U. C. L. A. last week, Standlee played 56 minutes, picked up 156 yards in 18 rushes, passed well and boosted for an average of 28 yards. A "runaway box car," one critic called him.

Babe Horrell, U. C. L. A. coach, gave Standlee the edge over Kimbrough on the basis of their play against his team. The comparison, however, may not be entirely fair since Kimbrough spent some time in a hospital the week of the Texas Aggies-U. C. L. A. game, made the trip to Los Angeles by air and wound up playing 60 minutes against the tough Bruins.

Kimbrough, incidentally, was all over the field against Arkansas last week. He played 50 minutes, scored one touchdown and intercepted two passes for setbacks of 47 and 38 yards, one of which set up another Aggie touchdown.

As a group no section of the country can boast quite so many first-class fullbacks as the Western conference where standouts include Jack Petry of Purdue; George Paskvan, Wisconsin; Jim Langhurst, Ohio State; Don Clawson, Northwestern; Bob Westfall, Michigan; Bob Swenger, Minnesota, and Bill Green, Iowa.

Among other backs who attracted favorable attention last week were:

Gregg, South Carolina; Petros, Penn State; Martin, Florida; Sewell, Washington State; Heyniss, Mississippi; Fry and Thomas, Texas; McCulloch, Cornell; Davis, Lach and Swiger, Duke; Bates, Georgia Tech; LaLanne, North Carolina; Butterworth, Fordham; Kuchburn, Oregon State; Higgins, Vanderbilt; Heagne, Colgate; Warmer, Virginia Tech; Gorilla, Harvard; Clement and Johnston, Southern Methodist.

Fehley and Watts, North Carolina State; Polczwki and Gallovich, Wake Forest; Spencer, Davidson; Hopp and Roring, Nebraska; Christman, Missouri; Gallarneau, Stanford; Foxx, Tennessee; Harkins, Auburn; Davis, Georgia; Specer, Utah; Wing, Brigham Young; McClung, Colorado; Maughan, Utah State; Johnson, Mississippi State; Mazur, Army; Juzwik, Notre Dame; Holovak, Boston college; Hahnenstein, Northwestern, Reagan and Allen, Penn; Busik, Navy; Pugh and Thomason, Texas A. and M.; Gillespie, Texas Christian; Franck and Smith, Minnesota.

Hursh, Indiana; High, Brown; Wood, Columbia; Ahwesh, Duquesne; Krehlap, Georgetown; Natowich, Holy Cross; Mazur, Manhattan; Peters, Princeton; Canale, Syracuse, Tomasic, Temple; Bacca, Villanova, Seymour, Yale; Calvin, Purdue.

NEYLAND ANNOUNCES VOLS' 1941 SCHEDULE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Two Ohio teams—the Universities of Dayton and Cincinnati—got places on the University of Tennessee's 1941 football schedule, Major Bob Neyland announced Wednesday night.

Neyland added that the site of the Fordham game had not been determined but that Cleveland, New York and Knoxville were places under consideration.

The Volunteers may meet Southwestern college of Memphis on the Saturday preceding the Fordham tilt although arrangements have not been completed.

The schedule:

September 27—Mercer here.
October 4—Duke at Durham.
October 11—Dayton here.
October 18—Alabama here.
October 25—Cincinnati here.
November 1—Louisiana State at Baton Rouge.
November 8—Southwestern (tentative).
November 15—Fordham.
November 22—Kentucky at Lexington.
November 29—Vanderbilt here.

WATERPROOF PLAYS CLARKS '11' FRIDAY

WATERPROOF, Nov. 7. [illegible] The Waterproof Tigers will play the strong Clarks eleven Friday on the local field. It will be the last home game of the season for the Tigers.

Clark, 1939 Class B state championship, began the season with a green team but has improved over the route and last week held the Lake Providence Panthers to a scoreless tie, losing 2-0.

The Tigers have shown improvement, too, and the local fans are expecting a ding-dong clash. The Tigers battled the Newellton Bears to a scoreless tie last week.

The Tigers will be outweighed considerable, but this will be nothing new, as they have faced similar situations in almost all their games.

The local school officials have been advised that all stores and business houses have decided to close in order to give the Tigers support, while the Clarks rooters have followed their team in large groups all season.

INDIANS DEPART FOR SATURDAY'S TILT IN FLORIDA

Thirty-Four On Northeast Junior Squad Making Trip By Bus

Thirty-four strong, the Northeast Junior college Indians will leave early this morning for their clash with the U. S. Naval Air corps in Pensacola, Fla., Saturday afternoon.

The Indians will stop over en route at Mobile for a workout on the Spring Hill college field, leaving immediately afterward for Pensacola.

Two squadmen, Izzy Lavely, who has not played in any of the Northeast Junior college games, and Arnold Kilpatrick, another boy not to see any service this year, will not make the trip.

Bill Abraham and Coral Cope will not see action, since they are not in the best of condition, but the squad as a whole is in the best shape of the season, Coach Jim Maples said.

The Indians will leave Monroe by bus [illegible]

St. Mary's Coach, Goldbug Tutor To Be 'Twelfth Men'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Coach Ossie Deenges is about to go down in gridiron annals as the originator of 12-man-football.

Yes sir, come Saturday at San Antonio, Tex., Coach Ossie of the Oklahoma City university Goldbugs and Coach Mose Simms of St. Mary's colorful Rattlers will hop from the bench and call signals.

You might know Old Mose would be in for something like that. Mose would rather get some honest free advertising for his football team than win a game you'd almost say day.

"Sure, we'll do it," bellowed Mose from the other end of the telephone. "It sounds like a swell stunt!"

Deenges will admit that all this rumpus about coaches wig-wagging goals from the bench gave him the idea. After all, when 11 men can't win a game all season, maybe an extra one help.

closes its season December 14, hunters will flock to the 13 states of the southern zone, where the season lasts until December 31.

The only stipulation is that hunters have the $1 federal hunting stamp and pay fees in each state in which they shoot.

"The southern states," says Benson, "enjoy a big advantage over the northern, inasmuch as probably 75 per cent of the continental duck population winters along the gulf and Atlantic states. These birds fly southward from their most important breeding grounds in the three prairie provinces of Canada, following the Mississippi valley as one of their greatest flyways.

"Another flyway extends southward from Montana through Wisconsin, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. A considerable number of birds branch off from the Mississippi river flyway near St. Louis and head east across Tennessee to their wintering grounds on the coasts of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida."

Zahniser's office reports that there may have been a shift of birds from the central to the Mississippi flyway because of drouth in the great plains states.

Washington Will Try To Outscore Undefeated Stanford

SEATTLE, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The University of Washington Huskies, preseason Rose Bowl favorites of the Pacific Coast sports writers, entrained for Palo Alto, Calif., and Saturday's Stanford football game Wednesday, talking about everything but the Rose Bowl.

"Never mind the Rose Bowl," snapped Coach Jimmy Phelan. "We're playing Saturday in the Stanford headlines and nowhere else."

The upstart Stanford, winners of six straight games, four of them Pacific Coast conference tilts, also become the host of the coast with their daring and intricate plays.

Phelan, master of devising defenses, said his main defense would be an offence which he hopes will outscore the Cardinals.

"Not on a defense for Clark Shaughnessy's 'T' formation," he said. "We're going to try to score early and often and let the defense take care of itself. We're not going down there to stop Stanford. Stanford will have to stop us."

Tiny Phelan dismissed Stanford's 21 point average per game this season.

His huskies still are shaky in a few spots. Ernie Steele, the fine fullback, is not a figure two weeks ago and probably will keep the duke on the bench. Ricky Mudra, the coast's best defense center, is favored over a shoulder, and Dick Greenwood, submarine-style guard, has a bad leg. But they all consider the team.

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Georgia Tech's shift of Bob Ison, star end, to wingback and Neil (Hawk) Cavette, punting guard, to blocking back may add power to the Yellow Jackets attack, but fans think it means eclipse of Coach Alexander's famous sleight-of-hand football—at least for this season . . . The change, observes Ed Miles of the Atlanta Journal, "will add new deception to the Georgia Tech attack: A straight off-tackle play and a simple reverse."

Don't bite on this one—

Locker room smarties around Atlanta are being taken for considerable pocket money betting that Tennessee hasn't been licked this year . . . The catch—and the payoff—is that Tennessee was . . . A little business out at Pasadena New Year's day when Southern California won, 14-0.

Nash Higgins, acrobat—

Don't mention movies to Coach Nash Higgins of Tampa university . . . To entertain injured halfback Paul Hance, confined to a Miami hospital with a fractured vertebrae, he undertook to show motion pictures of Tampa's games . . . But Hance, unable to move, had to use a mirror and the pictures were upside down . . . After much ex-

Add postmortems—

When Mississippi meets Holy Cross this week-end, Coach Harry Mehre would just as soon the Rebels would earn their touchdowns the hard way . . . Purser Hewitt of the Jackson (Miss.) Clairon-Ledger quotes Mehre as blaming Lee Dodson's 90-yard kickoff return as paving the way for Mississippi's 21-20 defeat by Arkansas . . . He explains it thus: "The boys came out for the second half ready to make two or three touchdowns on Arkansas and get 'em the hard way. Then we picked up that score so easily, putting us 13 points ahead, the squad's determination collapsed like a punctured tire."

LOCAL YOUTH FIRST TO MAKE A SOLO

Tommy Wyatt, Monroe, Wednesday became the first primary student of the civil pilot program at Northeast Junior College to solo since the course opened the latter part of September. The remainder of the class of 5 is expected to solo during the next few days, it was stated.

Six students of the advanced flight training course have soloed out of a class of 10. Floyd Pitts, flight instructor, announced. Of these six three have joined the stage ago, he said, which includes two hours of dual check.

Luke Lathrop, district general inspector of the civil pilot training program, for the Fourth area, Fort Worth, Texas, inspected the flying [illegible] of the Northeast Junior College Wednesday and tendered new licenses, according to the announcement. Mr. Lathrop also expressed pleasure at the marked progress in the program made at the college.

SENATE PROBERS ASK LITERATURE

'Scurrilous, Vicious Campaign' Papers Sought By Committee

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Politicians and public spirited citizens were requested today to send all examples of "scurrilous and vicious campaign literature" used in this year's election to the special senate committee appointed to probe the national contests.

Chairman Gillette, Democrat, Iowa, forming the request, said the material would be used to give the "American people a complete picture of this type of campaign methods."

"Every campaign has developed some of this undercover material but this one apparently produced more than ever," the senator told reporters. "The committee will ask both national political headquarters to furnish copies of this scurrilous campaign literature."

The senator said much of this "smear" material had been distributed by "undercover methods and late in the campaign so there was no chance for a fair answer to it."

He said the senate committee also wanted to assemble "advertisements and pamphlets designed to make special appeal to racial or religious prejudices."

BRITISH FREIGHTER APPEALS FOR HELP OFF IRELAND COAST

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP) The British freighter Empire Dorado radioed today that she was "sinking slowly" about 300 miles west of Ireland, and that there were "casualties aboard."

Mackay radio picked up this message.

"Sinking slowly. No means of getting away. All lifeboats smashed. Two rafts still alongside. Help urgently requested. Casualties aboard. Latitude 50.7 north, 16.50 west."

Shipping men identified the Empire Dorado as the former American freighter Tolosa, which was purchased from the United States maritime commission last May by Runciman Limited of London for $267,187.

She was due to arrive in New York November 18 from United Kingdom ports.

The 5,527-ton freighter was built in 1920 at Portsmouth, N. H., and was laid up at Fort Eustis, Va., when the war began.

2 AMENDMENTS SEEM RATIFIED

Government Reorganization, Civil Service Bills Okayed

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Almost complete unofficial returns compiled today showed that Louisiana voters Tuesday put their stamp of approval on amendments No. 2 and 3 which Governor Sam H. Jones had sought as the keystone of his governmental reform program in the late [illegible]

Most of the other administration amendments also were carried by majorities with the exception of amendment No. 4 which would have linked the state income tax to the federal brackets, a vital revenue measure.

The vote today from 1,467 of the state's 1,712 voting precincts showed that amendment No. 2 (the civil service law) had carried by 153,042 to 139,268 votes, and No. 3 (the Jones governmental reorganization plan) was favored by 150,475 to 113,225 votes. The margin was considered safe for victory.

Partial returns indicated today that the administration won victories on two additional reform amendments, depoliticalization of Louisiana State University board and reorganization of the dock board.

Both amendments received substantial favorable majorities in New Orleans and the vote from the remainder of the state was building up the margin.

CHAMBERLAIN IS CRITICALLY ILL

Wife Informs London Press Of Grave Condition Of Leader

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Neville Chamberlain, wife of the former prime minister, sent this message to the London press today: "Mr. Chamberlain's strength has been failing the last few days and he is now gravely ill."

Chamberlain, 71, is understood to be in the country, where he has been resting since his resignation October 3 as lord president of the council. He resigned as prime minister last May 10, giving way to Winston Churchill the day Germany began her drive into the lowlands and France.

Chamberlain underwent an abdominal operation July 29 for relief of symptoms of intestinal obstruction, but his recovery was described as satisfactory and after a short while he was back at his government post.

He has suffered attacks of gout in past years and the umbrella he carried for protection against England's weather became a symbol of his appeasement efforts.

GREEK VICTORIES ON WHOLE FRONT

Italians Are Thrown Back In Sweeping Drive By Defenders

(By Associated Press)

Greek victories all along the Albanie Balkan war front were reported by Athens today, with Italy's "big push" in the northwest repulsed and other Italian columns thrown back in the center and northeast.

Reports from the ancient Hellenic capital said important gains were scored in the center sector around Koritza, where 20,000 Italian troops were reported "trapped" under the shell-fire of Greek mountain guns.

Remnants of the Italian invasion columns in that area are now being encircled, the Athens reports said.

Dispatches from the nearby Yugoslav border said fighting in the northeast was intense, with heavy artillery action on both sides.

Big formations of Fascist bombing planes were reported attacking Greek troops east of the Koritza-Pilferma highway and pounding Greek mountain fortifications in the Pisoder Pass.

Three Italian divisions, armed with far superior equipment, were reported pitted against seven Greek divisions.

Advices from the battle zone said the Greeks' "Indian style" guerilla tactics were making sharp inroads against the massed Italian mechanized onslaught.

Premier Mussolini's high command gave a seven-word description of the Fascist offensive on the west in the 12-day-old conflict:

"Operations are proceeding on the Epirus front," the official communique said tersely, omitting all mention of actual troop gains or losses.

The Greek high command said flatly that Italy's mechanized forces, attempting to knife through the Metaxas defense line in a drive toward Ioannina, had been repulsed by Greek artillery and anti-tank guns.

"The situation is thoroughly satisfactory," a Greek government spokesman declared.

Previously, the Greeks had acknowledged a "slight retreat," while the Italians said they had erased the

New Tabulations Swell President Roosevelt's Vote

WATCH BOTH PARTIES

Await Indications Of Intentions By Leaders Over Laws

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Resurgent Republican strength reflected in the steadily growing totals of Tuesday's presidential vote presaged today some stiff political tussles over domestic issues in the months ahead.

As new tabulations swelled President Roosevelt's third term vote to greater proportions and simultaneously raised Wendell L. Willkie's record Republican ballot total, it became increasingly clear that on many policies the Democratic administration in the next four years would face a more determined and enthusiastic opposition than it has in the last eight.

Whether that legislative conflict would center entirely on controversies already familiar, or whether new elements might appear was still a matter of conjecture, pending declarations of intentions by the leaders of both parties.

President Roosevelt gave no indication in his campaign of contemplating a major program of new legislation for submission to the next congress in January.

On the contrary, all his utterances tended to discount such expectations. In effect, he told the voters that his last term had been given to launching what he considered necessary reforms, his second term had been devoted to consolidating "advances," and his third term would be devoted to forwarding those accomplishments while helping the nation weather the great world "storm" now raging.

The first broad new statement of Republican plans to be made since the election will be given by Willkie Monday night in an address broadcast from New York. Announcing this last night after a conference with Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., and other party leaders, Willkie said that "in view of the fact that between 22,000,000 and

Airliner Hits Plane; 15 On Huge Craft

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Fifteen passengers aboard a Brazilian airliner which had just taken off for Sao Paulo were believed to have been killed today when the transport collided with a military plane and both planes fell into Botafogo Bay, off Rio de Janeiro.

The office of the V. A. S. P. airline, reached by telephone said:

"Unhappily the news is true that our plane, leaving Santos Dumont airport at 2:27 p.m. with 15 passengers for Sao Paulo, collided in the air with a small plane at 2:37 p.m."

The belief that all persons involved in the accident, the passengers as well as the airliner's crew and the pilot of the other plane, had perished could not be substantiated.

Efforts to find any survivors were still under way.

The passengers included the Cuban minister to Brazil, Hernandez Cata. There was a definite report that he had been killed.

Quotas For Fifth District Are Announced By Headquarters; Papers Being Prepared By Ouachita Parish Boards

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP) The war department reported today that preparations were fast nearing completion for expanding the nation's land forces to a million men in the next four months.

An outline of basic training plans for men to be obtained through the selective service program said the first 400,000 recruits would be sandwiched into regular army and national guard units and efforts made to turn them quickly into "efficient, energetic, self-reliant and physically hardened soldiers."

The pioneer 400,000 of the conscription program are to be mobilized by March 15. Subsequent quotas will be put through three months of individual drill at replacement centers before being transferred to units in which most will serve the remainder of their one year's active duty.

By mid-March, when it is expected that 21 strategically located replacement centers will be ready, at least a million men will be in the army's olive drab uniform.

A record influx of enlistments Thursday swelled regular army ranks past the original goal of 375,000 professional soldiers. One of the latest vol-

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Louisiana's quota has been set at 13,942 men for the first call for a year's army duty under the Selective Service Act, state headquarters announced today.

The quota, by parishes in the Fifth district, follows:

Caldwell, 102; Catahoula, 55; Concordia, 105; East Carroll, 134; Franklin, 242; Jackson, 151; Lincoln, 123; Madison, 151; Morehouse, 253; Ouachita No. 1, 187; Ouachita No. 2, 175; Richland, 216; Tensas, 109; Union, 136; West Carroll, 148.

Between 40 and 50 young men in the area of draft board No. 1 of Ouachita parish and an unannounced number in board No. 2's section have volunteered to be called in the first list, it was learned here Friday as quotas for each territory in Louisiana were announced.

Officials were unable to give the exact number in the parish but state headquarters in New Orleans announced that volunteers would possibly fill the initial quota in the call expected sometime next week.

Local offices were busy preparing the necessary papers and questionnaires.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Louisiana's quota of men of military age to be called under the selective service act between now and June 1 was set tentatively today by state headquarters at 13,942.

A list of the tentative quotas for each of the 24 selective service board areas was announced by Lieutenant-Colonel William D. Shaffer at state headquarters but it was pointed out that the lists would be subject to revision.

Credits will be given for men now in the state National Guard or the active armed forces whose addresses were yet to be obtained and it might

OFFICIAL'S KIN ARE KILLED IN SCRANTON CASE

Experts Of Several States Join In Pennsylvania Investigation

CRANK IS SUSPECTED

Brother, Sister Die As Door Handle Sets Off Explosive

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 8.—(AP)—One suspect was questioned, but quickly dismissed, in an investigation today of the bomb deaths of the son and daughter of Scranton's public health director as detectives from other states joined in a widening inquiry.

The explosion Thursday night brought immediate death to William Rebhorn, 19-year-old University of Scranton student, and his sister Lois, 17.

Both were mangled as one of them touched the door handle of the family car in front of the Rebhorn home.

County Detective Joseph J. Rafter said the bomb apparently had been wired to explode as the automobile door was opened.

Fifteen minutes earlier, Dr. E. H. Rebhorn, the victims' father, left home to attend a hospital staff meeting. Contrary to his usual custom, he left the automobile at home—and walked to the hospital.

Rafter and other authorities said there still was no clear motive, but indicated there was a possibility a disgruntled patient of Dr. Rebhorn might have planted the explosive.

In addition to serving as director of public health, Dr. Rebhorn is a surgeon for a large coal company and often has given testimony on compensation claims. He said he had "no known enemies."

County Detective Rafter said the suspect picked up this morning had written letters to the doctor about a job. Questioning disclosed, however, that the "right man" was not in custody, Rafter added.

At the request of Lackawanna county authorities, bomb experts from New

FEDERAL TRIAL IS NEARING END

Case Of Night Club Operators Expected To Reach Jury Today

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Trial of two Lake Charles night club operators and their tax consultant on charges of federal income tax evasion and conspiracy was expected to reach the jury in federal court here today on the third day of the trial.

The defense rested late Thursday after additional testimony on an alleged $11,541 paid for "protection" of gambling interests to J. H. Handley, mayor of Lake Charles, in 1938 by H. A. Mitchem and C. M. Lewis, the defendant alleged gamblers.

Testimony showed that George W. Woodard, the third defendant, prepared the income tax returns of Mitchem and Lewis which omitted the "protection" item and alleged revenues placed at $10,338.84 from pinball operations at Jennings.

The battle ground of the case was the alleged intent of the defendants to evade the law. The government held that the two items were "wilfully and feloniously" unreported while the government holds that "gratt" is not deductible from income.

Countering the government's contentions, the defense declared that the sums were not "gratt," having been paid allegedly at the rate of about $200 a week to the mayor for his political influence in keeping competing pinball operators out of Lake Charles.

The mayor admitted as a witness that the money was paid to him but said he had no knowledge of violating any law.

Attorneys for the three men claimed the omission of the $10,338.84 was an unintentional error.

The government rested its case at 10:33 a.m. Thursday and the defense rested at 4:10 p.m. Arguments were heard today.

All three of the defendants were placed on the stand along with a group of character witnesses.

It had been thought the Fall River boy was suffering from a cold. When it failed to improve, he was taken to Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, where examination disclosed the source of the trouble.

Tech Student's Novel Idea Solves Transportation Flaw For Hitchhiking Members Of Ruston College Campus

RUSTON, Nov. 8.—(Special)—To take the hitch out of hitchhiking, several students of Louisiana Tech have clubbed together for the common cause of "economical transportation" and are getting results that make a want ad look like a printed piker.

John Honaker, Shreveport, a sophomore at Tech, got the idea first; and that elects him as "president" of the Hitchhiking Club. His luck with his thumb hadn't been working so well, so he looked for some way to introduce himself to the motoring public, a system that would distinguish between a college student and an ordinary knight of the road.

Honaker thought a signboard would help. With the cooperation of Dean of Men W. L. Mitchell, some scrap lumber was obtained and the board was constructed by the college's woodworking department. On the signboard Robert H. Rogers, Shreveport freshman, painted the following: "Help a Student Home. Louisiana Polytechnic

PEACE FORECAST IN LABOR RANKS

Conviction Increases That Lewis Will Keep Promise, Quit

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A growing belief that peace between labor's warring factions may be an immediate result of the recent election was evident today in high circles here of both the C. I. O. and A. F. of L.

It was based primarily upon the increasing conviction that C. I. O. Chieftain John L. Lewis will make good his preelection promise to step aside in event President Roosevelt won a third term.

Leaders attending Thursday night's regular meeting of the C. I. O. Steel City Industrial Union council and the A. F. L. Central Labor Union said they expected President Roosevelt to request a reconvening of the peace negotiating committees of the rival organizations.

Saying such a program "undoubtedly is in the cards," Leo Abernathy, international president of the Bill Posters and Distributors Union, added he thought such a call would come shortly after the close or possibly during the imminent conventions of the two groups.

The C. I. O. meets November 18 in Atlantic City and the A. F. L. at New Orleans on November 19.

Privately leaders in both factions say they regard Lewis as the chief stumbling block to peace in the house of labor.

Throughout his career, they say, the heavy-browed Welshman has been an uncompromising, bulldog battler where the issue involved a principle so dear to his heart as that of the vertical or industrial union for mass production industries versus the A. F. L. craft setup.

Peace parleys between the A. F. L. and C. I. O. broke down two years ago. The A. F. L. refused Lewis' suggestion that all C. I. O. unions be admitted to the A. F. L. President William Green of the A. F. L. and his group wanted jurisdictional disputes settled first. Each claims about 4,000,000 members.

Many prominent in the labor movement believe a more diplomatic negotiator on the C. I. O. side might be able to bring about peace and that the No. 2 man in the organization, First Vice-Chairman Philip Murray, is just such a man.

For 30 years Murray, quiet-spoken, suave parliamentarian and able negotiator, has been at Lewis' right hand as aide, counsellor and close personal friend, both in the United Mine Workers and the C. I. O.

Those close to Murray say he would not seek the post of C. I. O. chairman, but would not shirk the responsibility. They say Lewis definitely means to retire and favors Murray as a successor, although he has made no public statement yet.

Associates of both do say it is regrettable such a crisis in labor should arise at a time when the closest approach to a rift between them has just occurred.

This happened at the Democratic convention in Chicago. The determined Lewis went there and found his usually acquiescing lieutenant could be a stubborn Scotsman. For Murray flatly declined to desert Roosevelt. Lewis abruptly left without saying goodbye. Then Murray seconded the nomination of Vice-President-elect Henry A. Wallace.

The breach—if it were such—was not helped by Lewis' intimation in his speech supporting Wendell L. Willkie, that an agreement with the unsigned "Little Steel" operators might soon be forthcoming.

Murray, as chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, should know if such an agreement is brewing. He flatly told newsmen that was not so.

TUSSLES AHEAD IN U. S. ISSUES

23,000,000 people voted for me I feel an obligation to state my position."

Latest tabulations of the election results meanwhile gave this picture of the standing of the two candidates with 120,444 voting units already counted out of 127,245:

President Roosevelt—Carried 38 states with a total electoral vote of 449. His popular vote stood at 26,265,134.

Wendell L. Willkie—Carried 10 states with a total electoral vote of 82. His popular vote stood at 21,787,102.

The Republican reaction to this total, the highest ever won by a Republican candidate, was summed up yesterday by Joseph W. Martin, Jr., chairman of the party's national committee.

Announcing for "national unity" and for a "strong defense," he said "it is our purpose to take full advantage of the new and progressive leadership and support that has come to us in this campaign."

"We shall support the president," he added, "when not in conflict with the great principles for which we fought in this crusade."

To this he added the prediction that "in 1942 we will elect a Republican congress and prepare the way for a greater victory in 1944."

Republican strength in the presidential race carried over to some extent into senate contests, producing a net gain of four seats, but in the house the gains went to the Democrats.

The new senate will have 28 Republican members, as against the present 24; 66 Democrats compared with 69 at present; one Independent and one Progressive. Three of the new Republican seats were picked up from the Democrats; the fourth resulted from the reelection of Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, presently a Farmer-Laborite, who went over to the Republican ticket and won.

In the house, the Democrats picked up nine seats for a total of 267. Republicans elected 162 members. At present 258 of the 435 house members are Democrats, 167 are Republicans and there are two Progressives, one Farmer-Laborite, one American Laborite and six vacancies.

While clarification of the issues on which the Republicans may find themselves at odds with the administration must await the speeches and actions of their spokesmen, the party's preelection arguments furnished the general outline of its stand.

On questions of foreign policy and national defense the candidates of both major parties seldom found themselves at odds. Increased assistance to embattled Britain, a firm stand against aggressor nations, determination to keep America at peace, and unrelenting efforts to build a more powerful army, navy and air force were causes championed by Willkie as stoutly as by the president.

Many social and economic objectives of the New Deal likewise won expressions of Republican approval but the methods by which the administration has sought to attain those objectives were, in many instances, targets for vigorous criticism.

Government spending aside from that for national defense, charges of "regimentation" of farmers under the AAA, measures described as restricting business and hampering "free enterprise," and the continued existence of unemployment on a large scale all were objects of Republican criticism as Willkie waged his unremitting campaign for votes.

Kalamas river and left it behind in the thrust toward Joannina.

In Istanbul, the semi-official Turkish radio said the "Italian failure" in Greece might open the way to axis action in Yugoslavia—presumably to strike at Salonika via Yugoslavia.

Reports from La Linea, Spain, said heavy gunfire was heard in the Mediterranean shortly after 14 British men o'war—including a battleship, two cruisers, eight destroyers, two cruisers, eight destroyers, two submarines and an aircraft carrier—left Gibraltar harbor.

Details of the action were not immediately forthcoming.

Coincidentally, the German radio quoted reports from Madrid that Britain is making an island of her Gibraltar citadel, blasting a three-mile canal between "the rock" and the Spanish mainland—apparently to guard against any land attack from Spain.

Hitler's high command reported another blow at British shipping amid a widening sea-raid campaign that has already caused official uneasiness in England.

German warships operating in the Atlantic "have completely destroyed a British convoy on the North Atlantic route," the Nazi high command said, sinking 86,000 tons in a single surprise attack.

The German claim may have referred to an attack on two British vessels on November 5, the 16,698-ton Rangitiki and the 4,952-ton freighter Cornish City, which radioed that they were being shelled by a German ship same class as the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

No word has been received from the two ships since then.

Informed quarters in Berlin said the destroyed convoy included 15 to 20 commercial ships.

The German high command acknowledged that RAF warplanes attacked "some towns" in the Rhine province during the night, damaging houses, killing and wounding an undisclosed number.

Belatedly, the British disclosed that the historic Tower of London, where Sir Walter Raleigh languished in prison and several of Henry VIII's wives were beheaded, has been hit by bombs in recent raids.

The Royal Air Force subjected the great Krupp armament works at Essen to an "exceedingly heavy" bombardment during the night, the British reported, and also hammered at Nazi "invasion ports," airdromes and oil targets.

German night raiders again scattered bombs over a wide area of England, concentrating their attacks as usual on London. The British government said damage had been done to public utilities, private homes and business properties.

The Nazi raids were less prolonged than on recent nights, however, tapering off shortly after midnight. Casualties were said to be comparatively few.

Attention of diplomatic circles was drawn anew to the Far East by the assertion of Ichizo Kobayashi, Japanese commerce minister, that complete cooperation between Japan and The Netherlands East Indies is not only desirable but inevitable.

Netherlands East Indies authorities, Kobayashi said, "realize that to maintain their island government they must shake hands with us."

The Japanese minister indicated he would return to Batavia soon to continue negotiations by which Japan hopes among other things to obtain more Indies oil for her war machine.

PLANS SPEEDED FOR SOLDIERS

unteers was Chan Chong Yuan, 35, Chinese laundryman in New York, who held the first number drawn in the draft lottery and decided not to wait. He wants to be a machine gunner.

Besides the regular army, the national guard, to be fully mobilized by February, now numbers about 225,000.

To these will be added the 400,000 to be called up by March 15 and a like number to be mobilized by June 15.

In the outline of plans for training and housing selective service recruits, the war department said assignment of the first 400,000 to regular and national guard units would depend upon existing vacancies in those units, the need for men of specialized qualifications and the availability of shelter, food and equipment.

Virtually all are scheduled to take part in large scale maneuvers next summer which will simulate conditions of actual warfare.

Men with "outstanding qualities of leadership" and special qualifications may hope for selection to attend officers candidate schools the final three months of the year's training. Four such schools are planned—infantry, cavalry, field artillery and coast artillery. Their courses will lead to second lieutenants' commissions.

market but before the suspension of trading following the German invasion it ranged this year from 2.26 to 1.73 cents.)

The first decree also ordered all persons engaged in trade or business of any kind to open bank accounts.

'POOR RETURN'

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, told a group of employers and workers today that German bombing of "vital industries" was producing a "poor return for the number of bombs and number of plane hours the enemy has expended."

Citing a large building materials firm, he said orders which it had received for material to replace that damaged by bombardment amounted to only one-fourth of one per cent of the material which it originally had sold.

GOVERNORS' CONFERENCE

VICHY, France, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The governors of France's North African colonies arrived in Vichy today for conferences with Colonial Secretary Admiral Rene Platon which informed sources indicated would be of an "important" nature.

The purpose of the meeting was not officially disclosed, but it was understood to concern the British blockade and the coastal defenses of France's North African empire. Present for the conference were Governor General Auguste Nogues of Morocco, Secretary General Monick of Algiers and Resident General Admiral Jean Esteva of Tunisia.

TO REOPEN RIVER

HONGKONG, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Japanese authorities in the South China port of Canton announced today that the Pearl river, closed since the beginning of September to shipping between Canton, Hongkong and Macao, would be reopened tomorrow.

Cholera had been given as the reason for the shipping ban and abatement of the epidemic was cited as the reason for its removal.

British quarters welcomed the lifting of the prohibition, however, as a favorable development in British-Japanese situation following British abandonment this week of compulsory removal of British women and children from Hongkong.

AMERICAN ARRESTED

SHANGHAI, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Information received here from Tokyo today said the Tokyo police had arrested and were holding incommunicado an American engineer, Harold Landon.

Landon was said to have been a resident of Japan for two years, engaged in aeronautical research under direction of the Japanese army.

2 AMENDMENTS SEEM RATIFIED

ments in 835 of the 1,712 precincts follows:

Amendment No. 10 (L. S. U.) for 95,157, against 74,035 (includes New Orleans vote of 54,570 for and 43,406 against).

Amendment No. 11 (dock board) for 85,708, against 72,090 (includes New Orleans vote of 49,695 for and 42,312 against).

Two-thirds of the unofficial vote indicates ratification of the civil service and governmental reorganization amendments (2 and 3 respectively) and defeat for No. 4 which would hike the state income tax.

All the New Orleans returns were in but some 500 scattered precincts in the parishes, most of them small boxes, were still untabulated. It was posible, however, that these returns might change the results.

Governor Sam Jones has indicated that if the income tax raise is defeated it may be necessary to continue the 1 per cent sales tax. This tax is scheduled to be abolished December 31.

Returns gave these results:

No. 1 (eliminating poll book signing) for 129,280, against 91,239.

No. 2 (civil service) for 123,182, against 109,768.

No. 3 (reorganization) for 120,475, against 113,255.

No. 4 (income tax raise) for 99,622, against 108,739.

No. 5 (reduce auto license tax to $3) for 131,188, against 90,458.

No. 6 (for voting machines) for 122,973, against 87,655.

No. 7 (for voting machines) for 120,154, against 89,296.

No. 8 ($10,000,000 road bond issue) for 106,028, against 98,404.

No. 9 ($7,000,000 bond issue for Confederate back pensions and state debts) for 105,059, against 101,840.

DEFENSE NEEDS WILL BE FILLED

of American defense items now coming off factory lines, including large bombers and other things needed both here and abroad.

The 12,000 planes the board said will be built in existing plants and in other factories now developing.

Great Britain already has orders in effect for the construction of 14,000 planes. President Roosevelt said in his Boston campaign address last week. At the same time he had announced that Britain had asked permission to order 12,000 additional. He said then that he had asked the defense commission's priorities board to give "most sympathetic consideration" to the request.

The board said today it was intended, under plans now being devised, to gear construction of the British planes to Americans production in such a way as to prevent interference with American defense requirements.

"The question of delivery priorities is being studied," the board said in a brief formal statement. "They will be fixed at appropriate times as production progresses."

STUDENT'S IDEA SOLVES PROBLEM

Institute Hitchhiking Club. Can You Take One?"

They took the signboard to a spot on the Shreveport highway in front of a grocery operated by W. S. Moore in Ruston, a favorite waiting place for westbound hitchhikers.

"Within 30 minutes," Honaker said "10 boys had caught a ride. Two women from a Northern state picked up one of the boys. The boy later told me the women said they were not in the habit of picking up hitchhikers but figured a college student was bound to be decent."

"There's more to the story, though. We want to protect the privilege from abuse by persons who are not Tech students. So when the last boy has caught a ride, the grocer takes the signboard in his store. When other Tech students want to catch a ride, they go to the store and bring out the signboard.

"Each student using this system of catching rides wears on his arm a felt pennant of 'La. Tech,' which supplements the importance of the signboard. In fact, the pennants, which cost seven cents each, play a big part in the procedure. At present, we are depending upon the pennants alone to get us back to Tech after we have gone home," Honaker explained.

"Since the plan is working so satisfactorily, the chances are that the Hitchhiking Club will branch out and include similar posts on other highways leading in and out of Ruston," he said.

Asked whether the girls could join in on the deal, Honaker replied:

"Well, I don't think the girls need it."

Stradivarius, famous Italian violin maker, also made guitars, some of which still are extant. He is best known for his violins.

BLAST IS FATAL TO 2 STUDENTS

York, Philadelphia and New Jersey reached Scranton this morning to help in the inquiry.

Young Rebhorn and his sister were en route to a store to buy a birthday card for a relative at the time of the blast.

The explosion was heard a mile away. It broke windows in many surrounding homes.

Mrs. Rebhorn, rushing out, stumbled over the girl's body on the sidewalk, her left arm blown off. In the middle of the street lay the boy's mangled form, his right hand missing. Physicians found pieces of metal in both bodies.

The entire left side of the automobile was blown away.

Lois, a high school senior, had just been accepted at Colby College, in Maine. There are two other children in the family.

be possible, Colonel Shaffer said, that the quotas for the first call expected November 18 might be filled entirely by volunteer induction.

In any event there would be only a handful of straight out draftees to go then, he said.

The 15,042 figure for Louisiana was arrived at after deducting from Louisiana's gross quota of 34,356 the 2,295 men already listed in the National Guard and 17,017 in the United States Army, Navy and Marines.

The quota for each board area was figured at selective service headquarters at Jackson Barracks on the basis of the population of each local board area.

Colonel Shaffer said the exact quotas would be determined in late December or early January but the tentative quotas he explained were sufficient basis for calling up the first group which would in any event amount to only three or four men from each board area.

The chances for "drafting" men from each area were being cut down on the initial call by the large number of volunteers among registrants who desired to be placed at the top of the list.

The 15,042 men from Louisiana will be among 789,000 to be called into the United States armed forces between now and June 1.

LAND SHORTAGE BEING CREATED

Back To Farm Youth Movement Is Reason, Leader Declares

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 8.—(AP)—A youth movement back to the farm born of depression is creating a land shortage in the corn belt, says the president of the American Country Life Association.

Mrs. Raymond Sayre of Ackworth, Ia., in her president's address at the association's annual dinner, reported 24,702 rural families could not find farms to live on this year in the corn states.

Some 800 persons from farming areas of the United States were at Purdue University for the four-day convention of the association, to end tomorrow.

"Lack of industrial employment in the cities has backed youth up on the land to such an extent," Mrs. Sayre said, "that for the first time since its beginning the trend cityward has stopped."

In the 1920's, she pointed out, about 6,000,000 persons moved from farms to cities; in the decade just closed, only 2,174,000 did so.

"To the problem of decreased economic opportunities for youth in industry," she observed, "has been added the problem of the growing population pressure on land."

She urged that urban and rural people work together to solve farm problems.

Earlier, Henry C. Taylor of Chicago, director of the farm foundation, told the association this country's Fordney-Macumber and Smoot-Hawley tariff acts "had much to do in sowing the seeds of war."

"The self-sufficiency policies of nations like the United States and the British commonwealth of nations," he said, "force other nations like Italy, Germany and Japan, which are not so blessed with natural resources, to adopt a policy of aggression to acquire resources."

"The only road to world peace," he concluded, "is to be found in international cooperation in the utilization of the world's potential supplies of foods, fibers, metals and mineral fuels."

BAPTISTS NAME ELLIS A. FULLER

Elected To Head Home Mission Board For 12th Consecutive Year

ATLANTA, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Dr. Ellis A. Fuller of Atlanta will head the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention for the 12th consecutive year.

He was elected president as the group, composed of representatives from 18 Southern states and the District of Columbia, held its annual meeting.

G. Frank Garrison of Atlanta was named recording secretary for the 11th straight year and Dr. K. O. White of Atlanta was reelected to his third term as vice-president. All administrative officers were reelected.

The board decided to begin a city mission program that will include all major cities of the South "as funds are available." Dr. J. D. Gray of New Orleans offered the motion to inaugurate the plan.

Dr. J. W. Lawrence of Atlanta, executive secretary-treasurer, said the program would entail employing a missionary in each city, with local Baptists furnishing volunteer workers and taking care of operating expenses.

Baptists in Houston, New Orleans and Birmingham already have pledged cooperation, Dr. Lawrence reported.

Tribute was paid at a dinner to Dr. B. D. Gray of College Park, Ga., who served as executive secretary for 25 years.

JURORS REPORT IN EPPS DEATH

Truck Driver Admits Man Fell From Truck, Was Run Over

OAK GROVE, Nov. 8.—(Special)—Willie Eady, 33, Epps barber, fell off his truck and was run over by a wheel Thursday night, Fern Pace admitted here today at an inquest conducted by Dr. T. N. Pulley of West Carroll parish. The jury reported the case an accident.

Pace was still being held in jail at noon but no charges had been preferred, the office of Sheriff L. B Moseley announced.

Eady's body was found just beyond the Epps city limits. Dr. Pulley said death occurred about 9 p.m.

Eady's body was sent by train today to Crystal Springs, Miss., for burial. He is survived by his widow, three children, and a brother, Frank Eady, the latter of Italy, Tex.

Pace came to Epps, according to Sheriff Moseley, and said that he saw a man lying in the road just beyond the corporation limits. When questioned Pace admitted that Eady had fallen off Pace's truck.

Further investigation by the sheriff revealed that Eady had gone to Rayville Thursday morning, and had hitched a ride to a roadside inn, two miles south of Epps, then caught another ride, with Pace.

Sheriff Moseley said that Pace, who reported the incident, was apparently under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Funeral home attendants at Epps said that Eady is survived by his widow and two children, who are residing at Crystal Springs, Miss.

SQUIRE RAYBURN LOVES THE SOIL

Talks About Turnip Greens, Cattle, Farming When At Home

By Dave Cheavens

BONHAM, Tex., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Squire Sam Rayburn talks about turnip greens, white-faced Hereford cattle and farming when he gets back home these days; not distant political futures.

Usually the home folks do not kick out of the traces when their congressman returns to Bonham, but this time it was different.

It was the first time he had been in their midst since he was elevated to the speakership. They blew the roof off with a homecoming the likes of which had never been seen in these parts.

Representative Wright Patman, Democrat, Texas, told a crowd of 5,000 that Squire Sam was the logical Democratic presidential nominee four years hence. The neighbors cheered.

And Rayburn went to inspect the Herefords at his ranch 16 miles north of town, and visit with his sister, Lou Rayburn, and brothers, Tom and Will, at their family home on the farm near town.

He ate a big mess of fresh turnip greens and took half a day's drive over back country roads to look at the land, recalling the early years when he hauled cotton to the gin at Honey Grove or when he taught in a country school. He knows thousands of his constituents by their first names, and they greet him the same way when he walks around the square at Bonham or stops at the country store in Windom where the Rayburn family got its mail for 27 years.

Rayburn says there are only two things in the world he notes. One is a good load of hay, and the other a load of lumber.

Both have a compelling interest for the speaker of the House, who was born a farmer and remains one to this day. He says when he sees a stack of fine, green alfalfa hay he thinks about how many pounds of beef or gallons of milk it will make, and a load of lumber is translated by his mind into new barns and stock pens.

Take a half days' drive with Sam over Fannin county and you will get a pretty good idea of what the new speaker is interested in outside of national and international affairs, but it all ties in together.

We came across one large house standing stark and unpainted in the midst of a patch of root-rotted cotton. Obviously it and the land from which it had sprung had seen better days. Originally it must have been a beautiful place, of Georgian architecture, but long ago the paint had flaked off, the barn was about to collapse, the fences sagged. There was no kitchen garden, no chickens, no livestock in sight.

It made Sam sad.

"The man who once owned that house," he said, "came here about the same time my father did. He was a day laborer, then a tenant farmer, then a landowner. He got together hundreds of acres of cotton land all in one block, but when he died the children split the place up and sold it piecemeal. Now look at what's left."

He believes in farm ownership. He believes in the soil, and he thinks his north Texas neighbors as a whole would come pretty close to being the "typical Americans." He admires them for what he calls their "reasonable prosperity." He is glad to see them breaking the one-crop grip, and points to the revival of dairying and stock raising in this area as an example of their progressiveness. But he believes firmly the farmer should stuck to the soil and continually learn better management of it rather than load it with debt.

"It's pretty hard for a farm to carry a big debt and make a living for the man who works it," he said.

The part Rayburn has played in the administration's agricultural program had its roots in his own experiences as a farmer. We passed a black-topped paved road leading into a main East-West highway.

"I've hauled cotton down that road when the mud was so deep it came to wagon hubs," he reminisced. "That," pointing to the smooth-surfaced road, good in any kind of weather, "is better."

It is one of the many federal aid farm-to-market roads that criss-cross his district and in which he has taken keen interest. Parallel to the road is a rural electrification power line, and Rayburn is especially proud of his sponsorship of the measure that fruited in the REA.

Squire Sam dedicated a new high school building at Honey Grove, constructed in part with WPA money and recalled that when he taught in North Texas, county schools were poorly ventilated frame shacks, often overcrowded and poorly lighted.

"We are criticized by some in Washington for the millions we are spending, but I see the results of that spending here and in every village," he said. "I see better roads, more light, better schools, all dedicated to the service of mankind."

The people of Bonham and North Texas seem to agree with him. They first sent him to congress in 1922 and in the November election and the Democratic primary in July he had no opposition.

For instance, there is Nat L. Lovelace. His nickname is "National"—you get it, "Nat'l." When Mayor Joe B. Hrdlicka, the rose-growing mayor of Bonham, was casting about in his mind for a gift most expressing of Bonham's feelings toward Rayburn, on the homecoming occasion, he asked carpenter Nat'l to turn a gavel for him.

The stock was first hewn from a 60-year-old block of tough, yellow bois d'arc timber, the sound remnant of the foundation of one of Bonham's early buildings.

Bois d'arc is stringy and hard to turn. You must have a sharp tool and lots of speed on the lathe. It was a last-minute inspiration, but Nat'l tackled the job and stayed up most of the night to finish it after working hard all day.

"Sometimes," the speaker mused after receiving the gavel, "I need a good tough piece of Texas timber up there."

The United States Goes To College

Did you vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt or Wendell Willkie for president on Tuesday, November 5?

Pardon us, but you didn't.

You voted for electors, who you hope and expect will vote in the electoral college for the candidate of your choice. That is the unique college to which all the United States goes, once every four years, to find out whom it has elected its president.

Those electors, for whom you really voted, will meet and they will vote for the presidential candidates. The result of their vote will be forwarded to Washington, there tabulated with similar votes in other states, and the result is the official election of a president.

A long way around to achieve a result everybody knows anyway? Perhaps. Some people think it ought to be eliminated as a useless snarl of red tape, to say nothing of the possibility that the electors just might possibly get together and vote for somebody you didn't intend them to vote for at all.

It all started when the country was young, and had fewer that 4,000,000 people, most of whom were not allowed to vote. Even this restricted suffrage was not trusted. It was felt that the voters ought to delegate the right to choose a president to a select group of citizens. These would be chosen by the voters for their standing and judgment, and they, in their wisdom, would choose anybody they thought best for president.

Their number, too, equal in each state to the number of senators and representatives, guaranteed minimum representation to each state as such, no matter how small.

But after this college had twice elected Washington, parties sprang up, and the idea become more and more firmly entrenched that the electors were to be pledged in advance to vote for a specific candidate, thus reducing them from a choice-making body to a mere transmission belt for a choice made by the voters themselves.

Thus we are reminded every four years of two things: first, that our government is more democratic today than when it was first set up, and second, that it is a federal union of sovereign states, and that our presidents are chosen by the vote of the people of the states as such, and not directly by the mass of all the people.

This sometimes produces the phenomenon of a president getting the required number of electoral college votes and being elected, while not actually having a majority of the popular vote. That is because he may have great majorities in the states he carries, while losing others by only a few votes. This occasionally creates some bad feeling, yet it is hard to see that such feeling would be any less if a candidate turned up with a majority of 10 votes out of 50,000,000 cast.

This odd and atavistic "college" has been functioning for 152 years and bids fair to turn out many another "graduate."

The Japanese Way

Historians have ironically pointed out that since western civilization forced itself on the oriental manner of the Japanese, it was only natural that Japan should speedily take on the color and hue of the western way of living, including of course the arts of statesmanship and warfare.

Japan has been an apt pupil, has learned the way of the white man efficiently and cleverly and stands out today as a world power dominating the east. Now she wants control of everything in sight and rattles the saber with the declaration that she will not brook any interference from the likes of occidentals in her attempt to gobble up the rich spice islands and a generous chunk of Asia.

Up to a certain point the war lords of Japan have been eminently successful. Now the tide has changed a little. She continues to have trouble with China, in fact she is so thoroughly enmeshed in that land that it is impossible to get out. She has a Russian bear to fear and the sovereignty of a determined Western Hemisphere as well. England has entered the picture with the opening of the Burma Road and the United States points the way with a boycott.

These are definite signs along the path which spell out a dark future. And it is rather ridiculous to hear her leaders utter childish defiance of the United States. From all these things it would seem that Japan missed a few chapters when she was learning the way of the west. Somewhere and somehow she forgot to study up on the life of Napoleon.

Delicate Diplomacy

The politicians down in the Republic of Mexico have just disclosed a species of diplomacy toward the United States which for sheer delicacy is deserving of special mention. They suspended the Japanese export embargo which they had ordered a few days previously.

Presumably what happened started with the Mexican politicians' contemplation of the United States mobilizing. Mexico does not like the United States overmuch when the United States appears committed to peace, and Mexico grows positively suspicious every time the United States so much as oils up the gun.

Therefore, when Mexico saw millions of young Americans making ready for uniforms, Mexico thought up a gesture to please its big brother. It announced that it would shut off metal and oil supplies to Japan, figuring that if anything would warm the cockles of Washington's heart this should. Then Mexico revoked the embargo.

With this diplomatic finesse Mexico showed Washington that Mexico's heart is in the right place and at the same time let her Oriental customer understand that there is no joy in jabbing Japan even with only a gesture.

THAT ELECTRIC LIGHT CORD

It seems to me there is nothing quite
So exasperatingly, fatiguingly elusive
As the insignificant, mocking little pull-cord of a light . . .
But the facts are all conclusive,
When you stand there in the empty dark just groping,
Fanning convulsively with your arm and hoping
To contact finally with a wisp of waving string,
That the all-powerful, blasted thing
Is never in its designated place . . .
Somehow within a moment it is able to efface
Itself without a trace.
If ever you felt superiority
It will simmer to mediocrity, to inferiority,
Before the dictatorial might
Of the string of a light.
No matter how much you cuss and fumble
In the dark a string can make you humble.

MAYOR LAGUARDIA DRAWS THE LINE

You may heckle other people—
It's a long established right,
But if you would heckle me, boy,
Put up your dukes for a fight.

People often heckled Lincoln—
Washington was heckled, too,
But they were old-fashioned softies
Who did not know what to do.

Voters heckled Woodrow Wilson,
Teddy R. and others great
But they weren't much as punchers
As their timing was too late.

I give fair and final warning
To all hecklers near and far
That I never stand such nonsense . . .
Say, where do they think they are?

SPIRITUAL COURAGE CRUSHES FEAR

Terror destroys energy and paralyzes will power and anyone under its influence is helpless under attack. That is why an enemy will make horrible noises and issue terrible threats in the fashion of the giant of the fairy tales. He knows the power of fear and uses it to the utmost.

The only weapon the human being has against this evil force is the spiritual one of courage. Evil is one kind of spiritual power, good is the other, and the good much be strong enough to subdue the evil through faith and in courage. How is one to hold to his faith and insure his courage?

Good health is a tremendous asset in such a struggle, and again, the spirit of the man is the basis of success. A strong determination to down worry and uphold faith harnessed to disciplined action will win the day. Wishing without working is an empty gesture that tends to weaken the wisher and leave him at the mercy of his enemy. A good appetite for simple food, a habit of restful sleep, a will to accomplish a task each day are elements of health that are to be cultivated from wishing into action.

Then the mental attitude that sets the stage for courageous action must be cultivated as well. "I am not afraid," must be reiterated until it becomes set in the mind. What is there to be afraid of anyway? The greatest power anybody can wield is the spiritual power that insists upon its strength and announces its faith in action. Any healthy, intelligent human being has the makings for that and if he uses them he is quite as able as his enemy.

Don't be afraid of being called names for your pains. A name is only as strong as you make it. If you don't become scared at the name it can't hurt you, but if you are afraid of it and shrink into silence in awe of it you are beaten before you begin and your enemy has you in his pocket. All he had to do was use his breath, blow hard at you, and down you went.

There's too much of that going on in the world. Men and women are afraid to speak their honest opinions lest they be labelled with ideas they hate and fear. That will not take us anywhere worth going. This country was built by men and women afraid of nothing. They faced hunger, cold, exile, hostile savages in their battle for freedom and they won. Their faith was stronger than their fear and they knew the quality of peace they wanted. It was none of the do-nothing, say-nothing sort that seems to be popular these days. It was the kind that said, "On this I stand. I am not afraid."

Nothing worth while having was ever won by silence and effortless acceptance. Nothing worth holding was ever maintained by idleness. Not to the strong in evil belongs the good of this earth but to the strong in spirit—to those who elect their cause and maintain it fearlessly.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of the Monroe News-Star, Postoffice Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y., enclosing a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

TIME TO PUT ON THE WINTER WOOLENS?

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—When you are looking back on the presidential campaign and sifting out the oddities for your memory book, see if you can find things to match these presidential oddities from ancient history:

John Scott Harrison was both father and son of presidents, the father of Benjamin and the son of William Henry. . . . Martin Van Buren was the first of the presidents who was not born a British subject. . . . Virginia still is the "mother of presidents." Her native sons who have risen to the highest office are Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Taylor, Tyler and Wilson. . . . Mrs. Victoria Clafin Woodhull was nominated for the presidency in 1872. . . . Almost one-third of the men who have been elected chief executives have been slave-holders: Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Johnson and Grant.

William Henry Harrison and Zachary Taylor are the only presidents who have died in the White House. . . . The elections of Jefferson, John Quincy Adams and Rutherford B. Hayes all were decided by congress. . . . Lincoln, the anti-slavery president, was born in Dixie (what is now Larue county, Kentucky), while his chief political opponent, Stephen A. Douglas, was a son of the north, born in Vermont.

The Shortest Term

William Henry Harrison was president exactly one month. . . . In Missouri, they claim that David R. Atchison, senator from that state, should be listed as one of the presidents; Polk's term expired March 3 and Zachary Taylor was not inaugurated until March 5, 1849; there was no vice-president and as president pro tem of the senate, Atchison was president but he was not sworn in. . . . Washington received only $25,000 salary for his entire first term, after which the salary was raised to $25,000 a year, which is the same amount as the present presidential expense fund, the salary having been raised to $75,000.

President Roosevelt's first term was 41 days shorter than that of any other president since Washington who served a full term. Because of the "lame duck" amendment which shoved the inauguration back from March 4 to January 20. . . . In Monroe's second term, he received all but one of the votes of the electoral college. . . . Neither Lincoln nor Wilson, in their first terms, received a majority of the popular vote of the country.

Taft Got Two States

President Johnson, in his early days, was an illiterate tailor—William Howard Taft carried only two states when he ran against Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt, Utah and Vermont. . . . William Rufus King, Franklin Pierce's vice-president, was the only one ever to take the oath of office outside the United States and the only vice-president who never was in Washington after his election; he took the oath of office in Cuba, where he had gone for his health and died six weeks later after returning to his Alabama plantation.

Both North and South Carolina claim the birth place of Andrew Jackson. . . . The first national party convention wasn't held until 1831, when the anti-Masonic party met in Baltimore. . . . Vice-presidents originally were the men who received the second largest number of votes for president. . . . Only since June, 1924, has an Indian been eligible for the presidency. . . . Elbridge Gerry, who, as Madison's vice-president presided over the senate, resigned the vice-presidency to become a senator.

Although it was organized in 1900 and has had a presidential nominee in every election since, the Socialist party has had only two nominees: Eugene V. Debs and Norman Thomas.

GIVE OUT MILLIONS IN SURPLUS FOODS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—More than $4,600,000 worth of surplus food was distributed to nearly 2,000,000 members of public assistance families through the food stamp plan in September, the agriculture department reported today.

Commodities included nearly 2,000,000 pounds of butter; 2,500,000 dozen eggs; 15,000,000 pounds of flour; 6,500,000 pounds of cereals, and a combined total of 7,600,000 pounds of dry beans, fresh lima beans, snap beans, cabbage and tomatoes.

Large quantities of fruit and pork products also were distributed in the 220 areas where the stamp plan is in operation.

Here is the most latterly inane story of the week, passed on not to get a chuckle but to call for thought. Paramount's child singing star, Susanna Foster, was a guest some days ago at the San Simeon ranch of William Randolph Hearst. One evening, as they sat in the great room in which Mr. Hearst keeps his famous collection of cuckoo clocks, her host asked her to sing "The Lord's Prayer." She did, beautifully and with feeling. But just as she had sung "Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven," there came a sudden interruption. The dozens of clocks suddenly each set into action, as if to make a prayer so wistfully needed in this warring world.

Memories: When Marilyn Miller, accompanying friends on a "slumming tour" of East Side dance dives, insisted on tripping it with an admiring gob—and walked furiously off the floor when he asked why she didn't learn some up-to-date steps . . . When Wallace Beery, apparently washed up in the movies, flipped a coin to decide whether he'd stay in Hollywood for another try. . . . When Grace Moore threw a tantrum because someone whistled during one of her singing scenes—only to discover it was a whistling kettle, brewing tea in her own portable dressing room. . . . When Heavyweight Champ Max Baer, after seeing movies of Contender Joe Louis in action, boasted that he could knock out "a guy like that" in the first round.

Bells and no bells: Bells to Alice Faye, for being the first star to volunteer her services as entertainer at United States army camps. . . . British Ida Lupino, for pledging all money derived from her first published song to America's fund to fight infantile paralysis. . . . Walter Abel, Mona Barrie, Judy Canova, John Hubbard and Lois Ransom, for so conducting themselves at the Atlanta premiere of "Who Killed Aunt Maggie?" that three newspaper critics wrote letters recommending those folks. . . . STUDENT IS KILLED ON WAY TO SCHOOL

Investigation by state police into the death of a negro boy this morning after being struck by a truck while en route to school on his bicycle near Sterlington, was not complete at noon.

The boy, Andrew Tucker, 16, of Collinston, who lives with relatives on the Glendora Plantation, Sterlington, was brought to the St. Francis Sanitarium here this morning and died a short time after his arrival.

A relative told officials that the boy had been riding his bicycle to school at the time of the accident. The driver of the truck, it is said, stopped and spoke to one of the relatives that happened at the scene and stated that the accident was unavoidable as the boy had cut out in front of him.

Many Junior Clubs Recently Organized

Splendid Programs Presented By Young Music Students At Regular Meetings

Patrons of the arts in this city express themselves as being delighted with the progress being made in music development and a greater appreciation of all the arts among the youth of Monroe. At this time there seems to be a deeper reverence and a greater desire for learning among the youth of the city than ever before. Proof of this is evidenced in the number of junior music clubs recently organized, of prominence being the Junior Fine Arts Club.

Mrs. Dean Selig, counselor of the Junior Fine Arts club, speaks of the interest in music and the other arts manifested by the members of this club in the semi-monthly programs.

The November meeting with Dean Selig, Jr., was one of the most ambitious of the season. The program featured group singing, piano and violin numbers and a talk on art with Miss Shirley Ross, general chairman, presiding.

Three piano solos, written by Otto Meissner, "Little Wooden Shoes," "Magic Music," and "River Ever Flowing," were played by Dorothy Shipp, Jeanne Penfield and Lois Clement.

Daniel Bradford gave a splendid art talk, and had on display two of his own paintings, one in oil and one in water colors.

A piano solo, "Russian Dance," by Englemann, was brilliantly rendered by Dean Selig. Violin selections, "Hungarian Dance" No. 5, by Johannes Brahms, and "Intermezzo," from "Cavelleria Rusticana," by Pietro Mascagni, were beautifully rendered by Shirley Ross, accompanied by Mrs. Selig.

At the conclusion of the program a variety of confections and hot chocolate was served. Those present were T. H. Evans, Bill Penfield, Jonas Dean Selig, Judith Roberts, Daniel Bradford, Reta Clement, Shirley Ross, Lois Clement, Dorothy Shipp, Margaret Gochenour, Jeanna Penfield, Rosalda Mims, and Mrs. Dean Selig, counselor.

Officers of the club are: Margaret Gochenour, president; Reta Clement, vice-president; Dorothy Shipp, treasurer; Shirley Ross, secretary; Jonas Dean Selig, reporter; Judith Roberts, corresponding secretary; Rosalda Mims, historian.

Members of the Melody Music club comprise a group of youthful musicians who are making remarkable progress. Their counselor, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, Jr., speaks of the ever increasing interest displayed at the meetings during which programs are rendered and a social interlude enjoyed.

The November program meeting took place in the home of John Ann Lewis with Betty Sue Scott and Ivas Joan Wood, co-hostesses. The president, Jocelyn James, presided, and extended a welcome to four new members.

The program, skillfully rendered, was presented as follows: "L'Avalauche," played by Joe H. Monroe; "Turkey in the Straw," by Connie Menard; "Ghost in the Haunted Room," by John Ann Lewis; "Plantation Days," by Betty Jane Moore; "All the King's Horses," by Elizabeth Ann Mulhearn, and "Puddles," by Betty Sue Scott.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses to Ann Braun, Louise Frisbie, Billie Harper, Beverly Hatchell, Jocelyn James, Agnes Jones, John Ann Lewis, Maurine Linquist, Martha McDonald, Mary Wilton McHenry, Beverly Martin, Connie Menard, Joe Hamilton Monroe, Betty Jane Moore, Elizabeth Ann Mulhearn, Clara Mynholland, Bill Rodriguez, Betty Sue Scott, Betty Faye Stovall, Ivas Joan Wood and Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, Jr.

When Maeterlinck's new play "Seven Wishes," the first of the series, is seen at Neville High Auditorium on next Tuesday, November 12, at 4 o'clock, it is the opinion of the sponsoring group that both young and old will be equally fascinated, for it still remains true that humans remain, regardless of age, "all children at heart." No person, young or old, who has loved "The Bluebird" should miss seeing this play which the refugee Maeterlinck has written for the children of America.

Members of the Rodney J. Hobbs post, auxiliary 1809 V. F. W., motored to Bastrop, La., Thursday night for the purpose of holding a Fifth district meeting.

Mrs. Ray Leonard, Fifth district president, presided.

Members of the auxiliary from Rayville, Bastrop, and Monroe were represented at this meeting.

Changes in the ritual were outlined, and plans were outlined for a contest of floor work to be held in Monroe in January. Those attending the meeting from Monroe were Mrs. N. O. Freeman, Mrs. Devera Blackwell, and Mrs. Ray Leonard.

Mrs. Robert Kellogg will leave Saturday morning for Baton Rouge where she will be the guest for a week of her aunt, Mrs. B. H. Singletary and Professor Singletary.

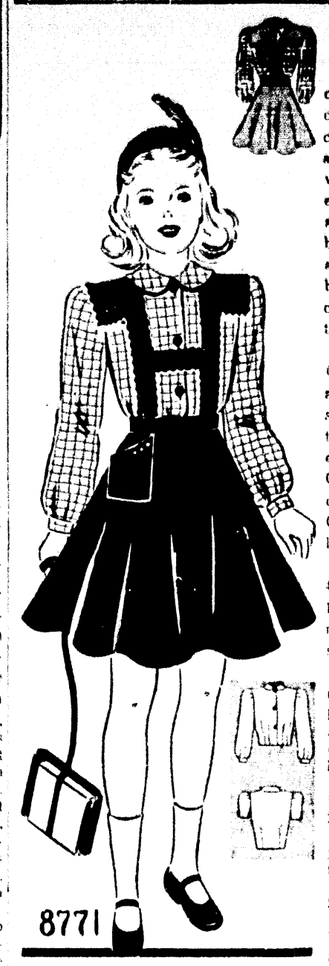
Today's Pattern



A JOLLY JUVENILE JUMPER

PATTERN 8771

There's something very cheery and charming about this gay new version of the jumper-blouse which heads its class in school fashions. The skirt has a buoyant flare, and the jumper straps wear lively epaulet trims and braid edgings that make it very individual and cute. The straps cross in the back, you see, so that there won't be any slipping-off-the-shoulders trouble. This type of jumper makes the contrast of light and dark fabrics particularly becoming.

With a couple of jumpers like this (remember the pattern is No. 8771) and perhaps half a dozen blouses, any school-girl will be well-equipped for the winter term. She can wear sweaters with the jumper, too, of course. Corduroy, flannel, jersey and wool crepe are smart jumper materials. Challis, jersey, flat crepe, pique and linen are pretty for the blouse.

Pattern No. 8771 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 6 requires 1 5-8 yards of 54-inch material without nap for jumper; 1 1-2 yards for long-sleeved blouse; 4 1-2 yards trimming.

For a PATTERN of this attractive model send 15c IN COIN, YOUR NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE, NUMBER and SIZE to News-Star—World Today's Pattern Service, 106 7th Ave., New York, N. Y.

Everything new! Everything smart! Fashions for everybody from little size 2's to stately size 52's! Wearable, practical versions that will fit right into your daily life and give endless satisfaction. That's what you'll find in the new Fall and Winter Fashion Book! Send for it this very day—right now!

Pattern 15c, Pattern Book 15c. One Pattern and Pattern Book ordered together 25c.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Marx, Jr., arrived in Monroe from a honeymoon spent on the coast at Galveston and are now at home to their friends in an apartment at 1602 North Third street.

Members of the Junior Business and Professional Girls' club of the Y. W. C. A. will entertain with a dancing party on the terrace of the Frances hotel November 16.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

by Rita Mohler Manson

YESTERDAY: Caught in a Chinese revolution, Lynn Britton and Temu Darin are doing what they can to help the refugees, while they wait for some way to complete their journey to Shani Lun. Peggy Telford, a friend of Lynn's from America, is resting in the monastery where they have found refuge. Lynn is wondering whether it may be possible to escape going to Shani Lun, because once there she must marry the Prince of the country, whom she has never seen.

Chapter 26

Bullets Again

LYNN marvelled at the fortitude of these peasant people. All the patients walked away from the dressing station unaided except the poor woman who died lying in one corner of the room, while Lynn bathed her face in cool water. One patient, carrying the green flag of a messenger, had a special message for Temu.

"Wish to tell me what it is?" Lynn asked.

He hesitated and then shook his head. "It's not good news for me," he said whimsically, "or I'd tell you."

Lynn regarded him with bright eyes, half sympathetic and yet half hopeful that his bad news was her good news. "Is thy government searching for me at last?" she asked.

"I understand your story made quite a sensation in Nanking when our tourist friends related it," he admitted, "but I shan't tell you another word." They smiled at each other. She put her hand to her heart.

"Something tells me here," she said, "that I shall go to Delun only of my own free will." The laughter had died out of his eyes.

"Perhaps you are right" he said heavily and turned to his work. Lynn thought she had never before seen him so depressed.

At eleven o'clock he sent her back to the grand lama's house to rest and called the fat priest from his prayers before the temple.

"You can pray and help me too," he said.

Lynn went reluctantly; there was so much to be done. But her new hostess was not hardened to the deadly pain presented to them. She found Peggy walking despondently up and down the courtyard. A servant put his meager evening meal, a bowl of stew from the abbot's kitchen, along with a small pot of tea. Lynn persuaded Peggy to go for a walk on the high stone wall encircling the monastery.

"Well, now, Peggy, you and I are in a good deal of trouble. Do you suppose [illegible] Peggy sighed. "I don't know. I'm so tired I don't care. I'm sorry I got you into this. I'm sorry I ever came to China. I'm sorry I ever was born. I'm sorry I ever met Dr. Carey. I'm sorry I ever met Dr. Carey. I'm sorry I ever met Dr. Carey

THANKSGIVING-MINCEMEAT PIE

Mothers Are Using New Churn-Fresh Shortening For The Best

Thanksgiving wouldn't be Thanksgiving without mincemeat pie! Mother promised better pie than ever since she started using that new churn-fresh shortening. You'll believe it when you see how wonderfully white and smooth it is.

You'll understand too why that special creaming is important when you cut the shortening into your dry ingredients. It gives you quicker-than-ever cutting-in and speeds up the mixing process. It gives you a quick, light dough.

It gives you a quick, light dough. That sweet pure churn-fresh shortening—honestly guaranteed fresh, has no taste of its own. Only bland, digestible goodness, for making grand, digestible pie crust.

If you are in the least skeptical, why don't you try it with the same recipe that mother uses? Here it is:

Mincemeat Pie

2-3 cup Snowdrift.
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 to 6 tablespoons water
2 9-oz. packages prepared mincemeat

Sift flour and salt, cut in Snowdrift until mixture is size of small peas. Add water, a small amount at a time, until dough is just moist enough to hold together. Using both hands, gather the mixture in a ball. Lightly dust pastry board with flour. Divide pastry, allowing more for the lower crust than for the upper crust. Roll lightly from center to edge, keeping pastry as near the shape of plate as possible. Place in pie plate, pressing lightly to fit, and trim. For mincemeat filling, follow directions given on label of particular brand used. Roll out and adjust top crust. Flute edge and cut a few gashes in the center for escaping steam. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 35 minutes.

When the 1900 car chugged down the road, without top, without headlights, without windshield or fenders or bumpers, it cost the driver 30 cents per mile to own and operate. Today the average is down to less than three cents.

Spices Play Big Part In Limited Food Allowances

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Service Staff Writer)

Spices are important in your limited food budget because they add palatability to some of the plainer foods. Although they may not be high in nutritional value, they are valuable as appetite encouragers, and therefore should be regarded as essential even in the moderate cost appetite diet.

On a budget for a family of four for around $12.25 a week, allow about 65 cents for spices and other food accessories each week. But remember that the other necessities you [illegible] must buy include coffee, tea, cocoa, baking powder, soda, vinegar, etc.

To get that "professional" look to roast turkey, chicken or other fowl, mix three-fourths cup shortening with a tablespoon Hungarian paprika. Last the final swell, rubbing the mixture all over the surface. Cover for first half of the roasting then remove cover for the other half. The fowl will take on a rich sun-tanned color.

Among Hungarian dishes liked by American appetites is chicken paprikash. The recipe comes from the Hungarian Cook Book by Mme. Rosa Gross.

Chicken Paprikash

One chicken, (about 3 pounds), 1 tablespoon fat, 2 large onions, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 small ripe tomato, 1-2 green pepper.

Cut chicken in pieces at the joints, sprinkle with salt and pepper and stand for half hour. Melt fat in heavy saucepan and add chopped onions and fry to light brown. Add seasoned pepper and paprika, mix well, and add chicken and broken tomato. Cover tightly and stew gently until onions fall apart and chicken is tender, turning occasionally. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

Great care should be taken in turning chicken to keep it intact. When done, remove chicken to a hot platter and pour sauce over it. If sauce in pot seems insufficient, add a little water to saucepan and scrape together onions in pot. Let come to boil and pour over the chicken. Serve with egg dumplings or steamed rice.

Brown Sauce

One tablespoon fat or butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 slice onion, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 1 cup water or meat stock.

Fry onion in fat and remove; stir in flour and cook until brown. Add salt and paprika and slowly stir in water or stock. Boil five minutes. Keep covered to prevent "skin" from forming.

Now Is The Time To Do Tricks With Grape Specialties

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
(NEA Service Staff Writer)

Grapes are abundant. The slip-skin grapes which grow east of the Rockies are from American native vines. They grew wild along the coast when the colonists first came to the new world.

From California, on the other hand come many delicious European type grapes with skins which cling to the pulp. These grapes were carried to California by the early missionaries.

In the markets, look for grapes that are plump, have firm fruit. Make certain they do not drop off at the slightest touch. Avoid wet and moldy grapes. Watch out for fruit injured by frost. It is soft and flabby.

The Pacific coast grapes are on the market most of the year. But the slip-skin Eastern variety has a short season. There is still time to make a batch of grape conserve for the winter menu. The following recipe has been worked out by the Federal Bureau of Home Economics:

Grape Conserve

Use slip-skin grapes such as Concord. Wash and drain grapes and remove from stems. To 4 lbs. of prepared grapes allow 2 lbs. sugar, 1 cup seedless raisins, 1 orange, 1 cup nut meats, and 1 teaspoon salt.

Slip skins from grapes and keep them separate from the pulp. Peel orange and discard seeds. Chop orange pulp and peel very fine. Chop nuts fine.

Boil grape pulp, stirring constantly, for about 10 minutes, or until seeds show. Press through sieve to remove seeds. To grape pulp add sugar, raisins, orange and salt. Boil rapidly, stirring to prevent scorching, until mixture begins to thicken. Add grape skins and boil for 10 minutes longer or until somewhat thick. Stir in chopped nuts, and pour at once into hot sterilized jelly glasses or glass jars. Seal at once.

Now that grapes are abundant and reasonable, use them for breakfast and dessert fruit. Combine several varieties in an attractive bowl. Cut small bunches.

A few fairly tart grapes, cut in half, and added to roast beef gravy, will give a wonderful flavor. Cook grapes in hot fat for a few minutes, then make gravy as you always do.

MENU

Breakfast: Grape bowl, French toast, honey, bacon, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: Black bean soup, frankfurter rings, rye bread sandwiches, pears, tea, milk.

CHANGES MIND OVER WILDCATS

Tommy Evidently Feels He's Not In Trim For The Animals

ST. PAUL, Nov. 8.—(AP)—There was a time when Tommy Gibbons was ready to lick his weight in wildcats. Tommy, you will remember, stayed 15 rounds with Jack Demsey in Montana more than 15 years ago in an unsuccessful bid for the world's heavyweight championship.

That was about the time when Tommy felt he could lick his weight in wildcats. Thursday he got a chance.

For some time Mrs. Edna M. Colestock had held a $2,900 judgment against Roy C. Jones and Gibbons, now sheriff of Ramsey county, decided something should be done about it, so he sent his deputy out to see Jones.

The Jones home turned out to be an ark anchored on the Mississippi river. The deputy boarded it—no one was at home—and heard ominous growls, and other strange noises, which, it devoloped, originated from a collection of bears, a pelican and —wildcats. Jones, it seemed, liked animals.

The deputy beat a hasty retreat. "Animals," he reported to Sheriff Gibbons. "And wildcats, too—the kind you wouldn't want to lick your weight in. Tough babies. They are there but I'm not going to bring them in. Those cages are so old they'd fall apart. Then wildcats all over the premises. Maybe, boss, you'd like a try at it?"

Tommy thought a long minute. The staff waited to hear this decision from a great old fighter. Finally it came: "No."

The cats are still on the ark, Mrs. Colestock still has her judgment and Tommy still doesn't know what he's going to do.

MASONS READY FOR CEREMONY

Nungesser Will Head Degree Team Coming Here From City

Robert W. Cretney, district deputy grand master of the Fourth Masonic district, announced Friday that J. Chris Nungesser, grand master of Masons of Louisiana, will arrive in Monroe Saturday night, accompanied by 12 members of a New Orleans degree team. On Saturday this group will preside at the exemplification of two Masonic degrees in the Scottish Rite at a meeting of the lodges of the Fourth Masonic district, to be held in the auditorium of Neville High school, at North Sixth street and Forsythe avenue, in Monroe.

The morning meeting, which will be opened at 10 o'clock, will be devoted to the entered apprentice degree. Refreshments will be served at noon, after which the master Mason degree will be exemplified in full form. As both degrees are to be in the Scottish Rite, this program is arousing a great deal of interest among Masons throughout the Fourth district.

In addition to his present position of grand master, Mr. Nungesser has an enviable record of public service, and was designated a 33 degree Mason in October, 1939. He is a member of the Grand Council, Order of deMolay; past potentate, Jerusalem Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S.; a trustee of Jackson Avenue Evangelical church; a director of the New Orleans Community Chest, having served as chairman of the 1939 drive; a member of the New Orleans Planning and Zoning Commission; a member of the board of governors, Pride Asylum, and treasurer of the New Orleans Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The zeal that he displayed in fulfilling these varied assignments has been much in evidence during the time he has served as grand master, for he has been very active in district meetings throughout the state. He attended a Fourth district meeting in June, and found so much interest aroused by a Scottish Rite degree there that he arranged to have a special Scottish Rite team to the Monroe meeting for the benefit of many North Louisiana Masons who might otherwise have no opportunity to see this interesting ritual.

Deputy Grand Master Dee A. Strickland of Monroe, an assistant deputy grand master in 1937, was instrumental in the organization of the lodges of the Fourth district, is recuperating from a major operation, and it is hoped that he may be able to participate in Sunday's meeting. J. Luther Jordan of Mansfield, grand senior warden, is here to preside in the absence of the Fourth district deputy, and other grand officers present will include P. H. Fenner, grand junior deacon, and other Grand Lodge officers.

The [illegible] Lodge No. 24, Graham-Stephner Lodge No. 283, and West Monroe Lodge No. 419.

Arrangements were completed Thursday night by a committee composed of Roy Cole, chairman; Gardner Young, Otto Passman, L. L. Wood, J. C. Stewart, Curtis Hair, Robert Talbert, J. L. Ingleside, C. J. Watson, Hill Smith, Silas J. W. Wade, Nat Pegram, Marion S. Kern, Henry Haas, and Harry Ulrich.

Present indications and the interest that has been created point to a well attended meeting, and the feature that has been arranged assures a program that should be a high point in the Masonic year in this district.

Mayor H. H. Benoit, a member of Graham Stephner Lodge, will deliver the address of welcome to the visitors.

At the close of this meeting, plans will be made for the next gathering, to be held in mid-January, prior to the Grand Lodge communication which will commence on February 3.

TO PRESIDE

J. Chris Nungesser of New Orleans, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana, will preside here Sunday at Masonic rites.

Hooray!
Doughnuts!

What a difference the new Churn-Fresh Snowdrift makes! Doughnuts are so crisp and light...and digestible, too.

GOLDEN-BROWN DOUGHNUTS

1 tbsp. melted Snowdrift
2 eggs
1½ cups sugar
1 cup thick sour milk or buttermilk
1 tsp. vanilla or ¼ tsp. mace
4 cups all-purpose flour
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
2 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. cinnamon

Beat eggs until light and beat in sugar. Add melted Snowdrift, milk and vanilla. Mix and sift dry ingredients; add one half to egg mixture and beat well. Add remaining dry ingredients. This makes a soft dough. Chill. Roll on floured board to ½ inch thickness. Cut with doughnut cutter dipped in flour. Place doughnuts on floured board and let stand for 1 hour at room temperature. Slip doughnuts gently into deep, hot Snowdrift (375° F.), and as soon as they rise to the surface, turn carefully and cook to a golden brown. Drain on unglazed paper. Sugar, if desired, when slightly warm. Store in covered container.

You can depend on Snowdrift. It's made of the cream of pure vegetable oils. And it is Wesson-Creamed to give you smoother Snowdrift...quicker-to-mix.

MINNESOTA OVER MICHIGAN, HERB BARKER SAYS

AGGIES, BIG RED, STANFORD GIVEN NOD IN BATTLES

Fordham, Wisconsin, Alabama, Notre Dame, Army Picked

By Herb Barker

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Taking another crack at the football guessing game with no money refunded cheerfully or otherwise:

Minnesota-Michigan: Might decide the Western conference title in this one, particularly if Minnesota wins. No unbeaten team in the land has waded through quite such a schedule as the Gophers. They might hold Tommy Harmon within reasonable bounds to get by undefeated Michigan which in turn will have to keep sharp watch on Bruce Smith and George Franck. By the toss of a coin, Minnesota.

Southern Methodist-Texas A. and M.: The Mustangs are plenty tough and might break Texas A. and M.'s long string but this corner prefers to string along with the Aggies.

Stanford-Washington: This thing gets worse the longer it goes. Stanford's unbeaten, and Washington would be too, except for its opening game with powerful Minnesota. Maybe this is where the Indians get off but we'll tag along with Stanford to the bitter end.

Cornell-Yale: Should be batting practice for the Big Red. Cornell.

Fordham-Purdue: The Boilermakers are unlucky and Mike Byelene may not be in shape for much service, influencing this vote for Fordham.

Columbia-Wisconsin: What do you do in a case like this? Can't tell what Wisconsin is going to do next. In a deep fog, Wisconsin.

Navy-Notre Dame: Navy's strong but the Tars can't seem to make their power pay off. Taking Notre Dame on the theory the Irish can't be as bad as they looked last week.

Alabama-Tulane: It's just as risky now to pick against Tulane as it was to pick the Green Wave earlier in the season. This looks like a real tussle. Out of the hat, Alabama.

Penn-Harvard: The Crimson seems to be on the upgrade but Penn must be the choice.

Princeton-Dartmouth: Taking Princeton despite the Tigers' lack of a running attack.

Army-Brown: Very tough to figure. The Cadets hardly can be counted on to hit the same peak they did for Notre Dame. A doubtful vote for Army.

Holy Cross-Mississippi: Doesn't seem to be much hope for Holy Cross here. Mississippi.

Manhattan-Marquette: Taking Manhattan.

Northwestern-Illinois: Looks safe for Northwestern.

Nebraska-Iowa: Nebraska is really tough and gets this vote.

Detroit-Texas Christian: Each lost to Tulsa by a touchdown which is no help to this guesser. By the coin, Detroit.

Indiana-Michigan State: An ex-

Istrouma Indians Defeat Neville Tigers, 33 To 19

Andrew Craft Scores All Three Of Local Eleven's Touchdowns

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 8.—(Special)—Neville High's Tigers held the Istrouma Indians to a 7-7 deadlock the first quarter but after that the Baton Rouge city champions' powerful running game overwhelmed the visitors by a 33-to-19 margin.

It developed into a scoring derby early, with Nevile's Andrew Craft grabbing honors by making all his team's touchdowns on long dashes of 84 and 75 yards, and plunging over from the two-yard line for the other. Craft ended the game's scoring with his fake pass and long dash in the closing seconds.

Istrouma marched 68 yards from the opening kickoff for the first touchdown, added two more in the second quarter, stayed in gear in the third period for two more and then gave the game over to the substitutes with the margin 33 to 7.

Craft got away for his 84-yard spring through right tackle in the third period, and then got his final dash off in the final seconds.

Craft and Captain Guy Miller were clearly outstanding, even against Istrouma's sturdy linemen.

The Hennan brothers, Orville and Robert, shared the Istrouma attack, with Robert throwing his team's first touchdown pass of the season to Bill Dyer, who made a great reception. L. C. McCraine, reserve Istrouma quarterback, was painfully injured midway in the fourth quarter and was taken from the field to a local hospital in an ambulance.

The starting lineups:

Neville	Pos.	Istrouma
Earl	LE	Charlton
Ladart	LT	McCraine
Burgess	LG	Speer
Barham	C	Gunby
Simmons	RG	Bankston
Garrett	RT	Fauver
Trimble	RE	Dyer
Miller	QB	Dykes
Craft	LH	O. Hennan
Luffey	RH	R. Hennan
Young	FB	Miscar

Score by quarters:

Neville	7	0	6	6—19
Istrouma	7	13	13	0—33

Scoring touchdowns: Neville—Craft 3. Istrouma—O. Hennan 2, Dyer (pass from R. Hennon), Parker, R. Hennon.

Scoring extra points: Neville—Trimble (Craft holding). Istrouma—Bankston 3 (Dykes holding, Stockwell holding).

First downs: Neville 10, Istrouma 12.

Penalties: Neville 25 yards, Istrouma 30 yards.

Neville substitutions: Ends, DeMasterson, J. Dyer, B. Dyer; tackles, Welch, Petterson; guards, Stout, Cavaness; centers, Williamson, Reynolds; backs, Head, Luffy, S. Ladart, Francis.

Istrouma substitutions: Ends, Sibley, Landry, Brashier; tackles, McClure, Woodward, Gaudin, Depew; guards, Roshto, Patin, Mears; center, Rendas; backs, Parkers, Stockwell, Major, Kerchner, L. C. McCraine, Kelly.

Officials: Referee, Bill Lobdell (L. S. U.); umpire, Jess Fatheree (L. S. U.); head linesman, Lloyd Stovall (L. S. U.); field judge, Bob Powell (L. S. U.).

MOORE CHANGES BACKS FOR TILT

Two Sophs, Richardson And Toczylowski, To Start Game

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Coach Bernie Moore, who has been shifting his backs about to find a combination with more punch for Louisiana State's offense, will probably shoot a new backfield combination or two at Mississippi State Saturday.

Two sophomores who were third-stringers two weeks ago but showed better than any other Tiger backs against Tennessee last Saturday, quarterback Eddie Toczylowski and halfback Lyman "Sonny" Richardson, are probable starters along with Gerald Hightower, veteran right half, and Bob Kendrick, a senior.

The second unit Moore has been working consists of Vincent Madona or Marvin Jenkins at quarter, Billy McKinney at left half, Odell Weaver at right and Walter Gorinski at full. Jenkins took a bad beating last Saturday and has been working lightly. McKinney sparked the winning touchdown drive against Vanderbilt.

Charlie Anastasio, regular right half, is recovering from injuries and is a doubtful quantity for this week's encounter. Adrain Dodson, sophomore who has been the chief offensive threat in most of the games—that is, in most of those in which L. S. U. had an offensive threat—is due to be used in spots.

An elusive runner and a good passer, Dodson was bottled up completely by both Vanderbilt and Tennessee.

One big handicap the Tigers are bound to face Saturday is lack of experience. Mississippi State's starting team is composed entirely of veterans, and L. S. U. must use several sophomores in the lineup at all times.

Ted Cox, big line coach, has been working especially hard with the four sophs who hold down the tackle spots on the first two teams. The Maroons have a vicious off-tackle attack, with a pair of fine ends blocking for the elusive Harvey Johnson et al, and L. S. U. must stop that business to have any hope of victory.

ATLANTA, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Georgia Tech's up-and-down season on the gridiron hasn't stopped customers from pouring through the gate . . . The Yellow Jacket management drew whopping checks from Duke and Notre Dame and were knee-deep in greenbacks at the Vanderbilt and Auburn games.

MOUSE TRAP STUFF

When North Carolina had Tulane 13-7 and was about to punt in the last two minutes—the punt, incidentally, which Tom Glass of Tulane blocked for the winning touchdown—Glass told Fred Brekke to let the North Carolina tackle come through fast so he (Glass) could dash through the gap from his defensive quarterback post. . . . "Hell," exploded Brekke, "he's been coming through fast all afternoon."

'BAMA DEFENSE IS BEST AMONG S'EAST ELEVENS

Crimson Tide Backfield Has Stopped All But 25 Passes

By Price Howard

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Power without passing. That's the Alabama powerhouse which has confined its attack to land maneuvers almost entirely in scoring four easy victories and bowing only to undefeated Tennessee.

Alabama's Crimson Tide, with several great runners to offset any lack of variety in the air, has become the only team to cross Tennessee's goal (twice) and crush the Kentucky winning streak and coast over three other foes with the help of only eight completed passes. 'Bama has tried 33 aerials, a third of the average of Southeastern Conference elevens in the first half of this season.

Nevertheless, the elusive Tide backs and their sturdy line are getting along as well as any other southern power except Tennessee's roaring Vols. They are approaching Saturday's battle of ground power with up-and-coming Tulane with these impressive conference records:

1. The conference's best defensive mark of yielding only 537 yards from rushing and passing in five games.

2. Holding all foes to 334 yards from rushing, a conference low.

3. Limiting them to 203 aerial yards, another low.

4. Knocking down all except 25 of 87 opposing passes.

5. Compiling the second-best average (238 yards) in its rushing game.

6. Yielding the fewest first downs, 25.

Alabama has not scored on a pass this year—unusual for Tide teams—and has gained only 83 yards on its eight completions. Not only has its pass defense stood up superbly but 'Bama has converted two opposing passes into touchdowns. Jimmy Nelson ran 88 yards with one intercepted flip and Don Salls 40 with another.

The Crimsons completed one of four passes against Tennessee and one of seven against Kentucky for 16 aerial yards while running up 434 yards from rushing against the Tennessee-Kentucky total of 226.

The passing game also is at low ebb at Tulane. The Green Wave, finding itself to bump unbeaten Clemson and two other good teams after dropping its first three games, has attempted only 44 aerials this season. Tulane, however, was more efficient in completing them, connecting 15 times for 191 yards. The Greenies permitted six foes to complete 27—two more than Alabama's air defensive record—but they went for 408 yards, double the air yardage yielded by the Tide.

The two Mississippi members are the class of the conference in covering yardage. University of Mississippi has rolled up 2,055 yards from rushing and passing, an average of 293 in six wins and one loss. Mississippi State rolled over 1,975 yards, an average of about 330 in its five triumphs and one tie. L. S. U. totaled 1,922 in four wins and three setbacks, and leads the field in first downs with 87.

Tennessee, scoring eight times in the air, where its strikes have connected 28 times in 67 attempts, totaled 1,777 yards in six straight victories. The Vols hold the conference's second-best defensive mark, yielding 810 yards. Mississippi State's defense on ground is among the best, its six foes averaging about 51 yards.

Georgia Tech, Florida and Georgia are the conference's passingest teams. Together they have tried 330 aerials and completed 137 for 1,895 yards. Georgia Tech's .464 percentage in completing the aerials leads the field, thanks to little Johnny Bosch's trusty arm.

Gridiron Briefs

MISSISSIPPI STATE

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Enthusiasm was high on the Mississippi State college team Thursday as it went through a light drill for Saturday's clash with Louisiana State in Baton Rouge.

Coach Allyn McKeen spent most of the time on defense against L. S. U. passes. Three squads leave tomorrow morning for Baton Rouge. A special train carrying 500 students will follow Friday night.

ALABAMA

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Defensive work continued to occupy Alabama Thursday as the Crimson Tide neared the end of preparations for Tulane.

Rough work was cut to a minimum to avoid injuries but the Crimsons got plenty of dummy scrimmage against Tulane running formations and got an eyeful of the Greenie pass plays.

Offensive work has centered chiefly in gearing up the precision and timing of blocking.

Only one Crimson will not be ready to go Saturday.

Coach Frank Thomas decided against using Russ Craft this week, although he permitted the sophomore flash to run in scrimmage yesterday for the first time in three weeks.

LOUISIANA STATE

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Louisiana State's Bengals Thursday brushed up on passes and running plays for Saturday's traditional game with Mississippi State, the 35th clash between the schools since the series started in 1896.

In a polishing-off drill, the Bengals also gave a good deal of attention to aerial defense. L. S. U. will be seeking revenge for the 15-12 victory the Maroons won last year, when a field goal broke a tie score in the closing moments.

The Maroons are due Friday for a workout during the day.

Big Red Sets Pace In Swing To Offensive Grid Tactics

15 Teams Have Average Better Than 300 Yards Per Game This Year

By Gail Fowler

SEATTLE, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The printers probably have made a standing head of it by now—"Cornell again leads nation as gridiron ground gainer"—so for a new angle we may add that Cornell also is the pacesetter for a definite swing to offense as against 1939's defensive tendencies.

New figures of the American football statistical bureau, compared with the bureau's 1939 records, show:

1. That 15 teams this year have averaged 300 yards or better per game from rushing and passing, compared to only three teams with that average at this time in 1939.

2. That 15 teams this week have gained 222.5 yards average per game running, compared to only four teams at this stage last year.

3. And that 15 teams have gained 115.2 yards per game or better via the forward pass, compared to only seven last year.

So the fans who clamored for more offense in football are getting it.

As for the Cornells, they lead in total offense—gains both rushing and passing—for the fourth straight week, and are the nation's best forward passing unit for the fifth straight week.

The Big Red, in five games and 315 plays, has made 953 yards rushing and 1,192 passing for a total of 2,145 yards or an average of 429 yards per game—the highest midseason average recorded by the bureau in its four year history.

Much of the statistical showing is attributed to Halfback Hal McCullough whose aerial shots have kept the Cayugans in the forefront of passing teams. He has accounted for 805 yards, getting 141 of them on the ground and 664 in the air by completing 31 of 44 passes for a .705 completion percentage. His passes have averaged 15.09 yards.

Another team that goes in for red—the Crimson Tide of Alabama—holds leadership in total defense, holding enemy passes and ground thrusts to an average of 78.5 yards per game.

Texas A. and M., the nation's 1939 defensive giant, retained first position in the defense against rushing department, holding the foe to 30.6 yards per game. Utah State's anti-aircraft kept enemy overhead attacks to 19.4 per game. Texas Mines, paced by Owen Price, kept first place for the fourth straight week as the best punting team, with 42.94 average. Price's average for 26 punts is 48.15.

The leaders:

Total offense—Following Cornell are Lafayette 345.9 yards average per game, Navy 343.2, Boston college 335.7, Mississippi State 332.8, Arizona 332.2, Detroit 331, Texas Tech 315.6, Michigan 314.8, Penn State 313.2.

Rushing offense—Lafayette 318.7, Boston college 269.7, Michigan 260.6, Brown 258.6, Brown 258.8, Mississippi State 256.

Forward passing offense—Cornell 238.4, Texas Mines 145.9, Marquette 145.8, Princeton 139, Texas 135.2.

Total defense—Alabama 78.6 yards per game yielded opposing ground and air offenses; Navy 79.2, Mississippi State 93.6, Penn State 99.3, Boston college 105.7, Georgia 111, San Jose State 117, Santa Clara 118, Michigan 120, Tennessee 129.

Rushing defense—Texas A. and M. 30.8, Alabama 37.8, Penn State 38.8, Mississippi 39, Arizona 42.8.

Pass defense—Utah State 19.4, Fordham 26.2, Navy 31.7, Denver 35.8, West Virginia 39.8.

Punting—Texas Mines 42.94, Oklahoma 42.10, Auburn 42.06, Holy Cross 41.80, Kentucky 41.70.

CURTIS RETAINS HIS TITLE HERE

Vicksburg Groppler Defeats Grubmeyer In Last Two Falls

Jack Curtis retained his junior light heavyweight belt last night in a match with Gorilla Grubmeyer at the Monroe wrestling arena.

Grubmeyer took the first fall with his usual rough stuff, but Curtis came back and took the next two falls, the second with the "question mark" hold and the last with a crucifix hold.

The Gorilla began almost at once to punish the defending champ with his foul tactics and after weathering a severe storm of holds, won the first fall in 21 minutes with a series of fouls and a body cover.

Cutris again took to the Gorilla's own game, and again he beat him at it. The Vicksburg grappler won the second fall in 11 minutes with a favorite hold of his, the question mark. Curtis introduced Grubmeyer to this hold twice when he took the championship belt.

Both Curtis and Grubmeyer came back for the third fall determined to win, and the Gorilla again started his rough stuff only to receive more of it than he could take. Curtis won the match and the fall in 10 minutes with a crucifix hold.

Buck Davidson and Allen Parker staged a whirlwind bout in the semi-final, Davidson winning the first and third falls to take the match.

After nearly 10 minutes of wrestling in the first fall, the Terre Haute grappler caught Parker with a punishing headlock and made him give up after applying the pressure several minutes. The headlock is perhaps Davidson's favorite and most useful hold. He won in 12 minutes.

Parker took the second fall in 8 minutes with a combination hammerlock, which had Davidson in plenty of pain. However, Davidson captured the third and deciding fall with a body cover in 14 minutes. Davidson got a little rough in this fall, but as a whole the match was clean.

BASTROP PLANS HOMECOMING

Fighting Oak Grove Tigers Furnish Opposition For Rams

BASTROP, Nov. 8.—(Special)—The Bastrop Rams will play the Oak Grove Tigers Friday night in the main homecoming attraction for the Bastrop alumni.

The band and pep squad have worked hard all week, and expect to stage a spectacular performance during the half-time intermission. The program will be of a patriotic nature.

The Rams are in good condition for the game. They have yet to taste defeat this season, boasting one of the strongest elevens in the state Class A ranks.

Head Coach "Dutch" Binion and his assistant, John LeTard, have been drilling their charges hard all week, attempting to perfect timing and precision on the offense and strengthen the defense.

The Tigers, coached by Jack May, former Gent and pro star, have had the most disastrous season in years. Coach May was faced this year with a squad of boys all light and inexperienced. He has moulded a hard fighting eleven, however, which has given every foe a stiff battle. They have yet to ring up a victory, having only a tie with Mangham. However, they broke their scoreless record two weeks ago with a touchdown and conversion and last week counted twice against the Hamburg eleven.

The probable starting lineups:

Bastrop	Pos.	Oak Grove
Ferschoff	LE	T. O'Neal
Lum	LT	Tullos
Foreman	LG	Abernathy
Perry	C	Lester
Manning	RG	Huff
Parks	RT	Chandler
Currington	RE	Smith
LeMar	QB	Womack
Atkins	LH	H. O'Neal
White	RH	Borden
Foreman	FB	Holman

Officials: Francis (Millsaps), referee; Ferguson (Arkansas), head linesman; Riser (Louisiana Tech), umpire; Spier (Louisiana State U.), field judge.

PELICANS MEET OLLA GRIDSTERS

L. T. I. Players Drill Hard All Week On Offensive Plays

The Louisiana Training Institute Pelicans tapered off Tuesday afternoon in their drills for the return engagement with the Olla Tigers Friday afternoon on the Pel field. The game will start at 2 p. m.

The Tigers defeated the Pelicans 20-7 in their first meeting this season.

Both coaches of the two schools are local products. Coach John Renwick of the Tigers prepped at Ouachita parish high, as did Coach Kermit Youngblood of the Pelicans. Youngblood played college football for Louisiana college, starring at tackle, while Renwick is a Louisiana Normal alumnus.

Coach Youngblood has worked the Pelicans hard all week, trying to inject a more than one touchdown per game offense into them. The L. T. I. boys have yet to register a victory.

The Pelican scrubs will play the Ouachita parish Lion cubs Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m., it was announced by Coaches Youngblood and George Riser of the Cubs.

The Pelican coach has expressed a wish to schedule a game at the local field for Thanksgiving Day. A program has been planned at L. T. I. and a football game is desired to top off the fete.

It was originally intended to close the season November 15, but due to the program it has been decided to schedule a game. Any team wishing to accept this challenge should get in touch with Coach Kermit Youngblood or Principal Van D. Odom.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Alva Bradley is hurrying here from Cleveland, and the boys are wondering whether he'll talk to Babe Ruth. . . . Harvard coaches won't say so out loud, but they think they have a chance to upset Penn tomorrow. . . . Where does Tennessee get all that high class football talent? Well, Coach Bob Neyland says he could put two better than fair teams on the field composed entirely of Knoxville boys. . . . The gossips say the baseball trade winds will blow Eddie Miller of the Bees to Cincinnati for Billy Myers and $60,000 next month. . . . Catholic U. at Washington has had special letterheads printed to boost the candidacy of Center Pete Sachon for an all-America berth. Pretty slick, eh?

TODAY'S GUESS STAR

C. L. (Poss) Parsons, Denver Post: "I am going into the tough Southwest Conference for the week's most likely upset—Arkansas to topple a favored Rice eleven. . . . It's homecoming at Fayetteville, and the Razorbacks have their bristles up for this one."

FEED BOX SPECIAL

Southern Methodist to knock off the Texas Aggies tomorrow. . . . Paste this in your hat: Horace Stoneham says Mel Ott will stay at the Polo Grounds as long as he can stand on two feet—also that the Giants aren't about to sell Harry Danning or their Jersey City farm. . . . Jimmy Thomson, just back from an exhibition tour of Alabama, left the boys talking about his terrific drives. He drove a 350-yard green at Tuscaloosa, got over a ditch 300 yards from the 10th tee at Anniston and hit the 340-yard 10th green at Montgomery. . . . Did Ohio State and Navy turn down Fordham football dates? Well, we're only asking.

LINVILLE HIGH CAGERS BEAT FARMERVILLE CCC

LINVILLE, Nov. 7.—(Special) The Linville High School cagers defeated the Farmerville CCC five Monday night, 38-27, for their second victory of the year.

The two Dumas brothers, Ike and Claudell, led the offense of the Linville cagers with 14 points each. Ollie Horn was the standout on the defense.

TULANE LEAVES FOR TUSCALOOSA

Greenie Win Over Crimson Tide Will Insure Season Break

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Thirty-nine Tulane Greenies entrained Thursday night for Birmingham and Saturday's football game with Alabama which will tell whether the improving Green Wave can salvage a successful season out of the wreckage of its bowl hopes.

Last week the Wave looked its old self as it outclassed the previously unbeaten Clemson Tigers, and Tulane fans who had despaired at three straight losses took heart after that third straight victory. It seemed the effects of the greenness and injuries which had hampered the club had been almost overcome.

But Saturday the big Tulanians meet a crew of huskies bigger than they are and with more experience, and who thus, says the Wave's Coach Lowell Dawson, had "every right to win."

A victory over Alabama would assure an even break in the season and indicate a winning percentage for the season. If the Wave can take the Crimson Tide, it should be able to beat Georgia the following week and has every hope of winning its remaining games against Louisiana Normal and Louisiana State.

Should the big Alabamans beat Tulane badly and leave them battered physically, the Greenies might be soft for Georgia.

Seven members of the Tulane team, including the first two backfield backs and center and a fourth backfield man, will be unable to see much of peace work this week.

Possibilities that Fleet Harry Hayes might be able to play has raised Greenie hopes. Hayes has been out through the Alabama game turning touchdowns for years. He has been on the bench with injuries since the Rice game two weeks ago.

INDIANS WORK FOR PENSACOLA

Coaches Malone, Seago Drill Charges On Spring Hill Campus

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 8.—(Special)—The Northeast Junior college Indians of Monroe stopped off here this afternoon for a workout on the Spring Hill college campus.

The Indians are en route to Pensacola, Fla., for a tilt with the United States Naval Air corps eleven.

Coaches Jim Malone and Ernie Seago sent the boys through a long signal drill and worked them on punting, passing and their defense for "Tuffy" Thompson, Elder star.

Coach Malone announced one change in the usual Rebjkin lineup. That is at quarterback, where Vaughn Payne will start instead of Tobby Collins. Payne, one of the squad's best passers, has been taking practice all week and had [illegible] to start him.

Both Smith brothers are graduates of the University of Alabama, while Malone starred at the Ole War Skirt' under Biff Jones. Ernie Seago is also a Payne Bengal under Jones.

The Indians resumed their bus trip to the Florida panhandle city after the weekend and were scheduled to arrive in Pensacola at about 2 p. m., Coach Malone said.

MORE NEW DEAL JUSTICES LIKELY

Roosevelt May Get Chance To Appoint Three To High Tribunal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—One possible result of the national election is that the number of Roosevelt appointees on the supreme court bench may increase.

Five members of the nine-man tribunal have already been chosen by Mr. Roosevelt and this number will grow to eight if all justices elegible for retirement actually do leave the bench during the president's incumbency.

Two of the present justices are eligible to retire now, and another will reach that status in two years. Of the four appointed by Mr. Roosevelt's predecessors, only 65-year-old Owen J. Roberts will not have become eligible to retire when the next presidential term expires.

Members of the supreme court may leave the bench at full pay of $20,000 a year after serving 10 years and reaching the age of 70.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes is 78, but he has told friends that he intended to remain on the tribunal as long as his health permitted. He is reported to be in good physical condition.

Friends of 78-year-old Justice James C. McReynolds say he has not made up his mind whether to retire. It has been understood that he remained on the bench for some time in the hope that the next president would not be a New Dealer. His plans in view of the reelection of President Roosevelt have not been determined, his friends report.

McReynolds, the leading dissenter, is the only justice described by administration men as "conservative."

Justice Harlan F. Stone, a Republican who has been one of the court's leading supporters of New Deal legislation, is 68 and will be eligible to retire October 11, 1942.

All of Mr. Roosevelt's five appointments were during his second term. They are Hugo L. Black, Stanley Reed, Felix Frankfurter, William O. Douglas, and Frank Murphy.

New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Profit taking checked an early advance in cotton futures today after the government crop estimate indicated production of about 200,000 bales more than generally anticipated.

Yesterday's buying surge was given added impetus in the morning by overnight reports of large purchases of cotton goods.

Late prices were 1 to 7 points higher on Dec. traded at 9.84, March 9.82 and Oct. 9.22.

Futures closed 2-7 higher.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Enbank

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The stock market suffered from a slight profit taking hangover today after yesterday's biggest rallying spree in more than a year.

The list had difficulty in negotiating moderate advances at the start and selling soon cropped up in volume. Blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares changed hands shortly after the opening as prices churned confusingly. The ticker tape, for a while, was as much as three minutes late. A definite downward trend then developed and, at the worst, declines ranged from fractions to two points or so. Dealings slowed and closing quotations were above the bottom in most cases.

Transfers for the full proceedings were around 1,000,000 with better than a third of the amount turned over in the first hour.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Profit taking developed on the stock market in force today and most leaders lost their rallying verve of the preceding session.

Prices were slightly higher at the opening. Selling then cropped up and the ticker tape was three minutes behind for a while as blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares changed hands shortly after the opening as prices churned confusingly. The ticker tape, for a while, was as much as three minutes late. A definite downward trend then developed and, at the worst, declines ranged from fractions to two points or so. Sine Die Adjournment Looms For Congress In Short Order

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Prospects for the enactment of a half dozen pending major legislative proposals slumped today as congressmen, the election over, showed a marked inclination to wind up this session's business by a sine die adjournment within the next 10 days.

Even should a formal request materialize by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for additional taxes and an expansion of the federal borrowing authority, it appeared unlikely that it would swerve Democratic leaders from a determination to put off further work until January—a determination that found sympathy with some Republican chieftains.

An adjournment now, in effect, would kill four house-approved measures and at least two important resolutions pending in the senate.

Supporters of Wagner act amendments, the Logan-Walter bill to facilitate court appeals from the decisions of government agencies, the anti-lynching measure and the Ramspeck civil service bill would lose the ground they gained in winning house passage of these measures and would have to start all over again in the next session.

Only the Ramspeck bill, which would permit the president to bring approximately 200,000 employes of so-called "temporary" government agencies under the civil service, was in a slightly different category from the others since it was approved in varying form by both the houses and needed only the completion of a satisfactory compromise to win final passage.

The other three measures were awaiting senate action, along with a proposal by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, to relax legal restrictions to permit the extension of credits to Great Britain and a resolution by Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, to investigate the government's fiscal setup with a view toward recommending an approach to a balanced budget.

PLAY TO BE HERE

Prince Guidon (Phillip Pine) informs King Chernamor that all of his warlike plans have been frustrated and demands the return to peace and freedom for the peoples of the world. A scene from the Clare Tree Major production of the Maeterlinck play, "Seven Wishes," which will be the first of a series of four plays to be given by the Children's Theater this season. The play will take place at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Neville High School auditorium. Both season tickets and tickets for this particular play may be had at the auditorium entrance from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday.

LITTLE INSIGHT ON LONDONERS

Correspondent Looks In On East End Resident Of City

By Drew Middleton

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—There is no peace in London's bomb-harried east end where, after two months of almost continuous punishment by German air raiders, residents have rearranged their lives.

This morning, I watched them troop out of air raid shelters at 7 a.m. The women and children had been in there since 7 o'clock last night. Most of the men had been there since 10 p.m., after their nightly beer and game of darts in a nearby pub.

The women emerged with rolls of bedding under their arms. The children carried teapots.

Inside the shelter, two men doused the bunks with insecticide, and two more spread disinfectant over the floor.

One of the men said the people quickly adjusted themselves to the routine of shelter existence.

"We have a committee that sees there ain't any loud talk nor drinking," he explained. "Two women make tea in the early morning so we'll have something hot before we start home.

"We got no faith in them sirens, though. We stay in the shelter until daylight, no matter what time the all clear sounds.

"The kids sleep in one section and the older folks in another.

"Funny, we don't talk about bombs any more, although some women lie awake almost all night looking over at their young ones. Some mothers are sending their children away. Hurts them, it does, but who'd want a kid to grow up like a wild thing in a cave?"

The men don't get angry now the way they did in the first few nights of the concentrated attacks. They have come to accept ruined homes and shops as inevitable.

"All we're worrying about," one said, "is whether we're doing as much damage to Berlin as they're doing here. All we want is that Berlin gets a little of its own back."

NEW CATHOLIC CHURCH SET FOR WEST MONROE

A Catholic church in West Monroe is being constructed on Seventh street near Woodville and is expected to be ready for services by Christmas, the Rev. Henry Freiburg announced Thursday.

The building, of wooden frame construction, will be 30 by 70 feet, Rev. Freiburg said.

The church will serve approximately 75 families in the West Monroe area.

Rev. Freiburg and two other priests in West Monroe are members of the Franciscan Order. Rev. Anselm Reckamp serves the Little Flower church presently. The other priest is Rev. Jasper Mauss.

A piece of property on which the church is being built was donated by John Spatafora while another tract was purchased.

Tecumseh, famous Indian chief, was made a brigadier-general in the British army during the war of 1812.

TOT ESCAPES INJURY IN TWO-STORY FALL

Four-year-old Betty Joe Price fell out of a two-story window Thursday and miraculously escaped serious injury, according to hospital attaches at St. Francis Sanitarium.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Price, 115 Haynes street, West Monroe, the child was treated for minor bruises, physicians said.

AUTO WRECK NEAR ALTO IS FATAL TO SALESMAN

Injuries sustained in an automobile accident early Wednesday night near Alto were fatal to E. E. Patterson, salesman for the Southern Candy company, who died at 1:20 p. m. Thursday in St. Francis sanitarium.

Remains were carried to the residence in Shreveport by Rose-Neath Funeral home attendants. Mr. Patterson and his family were stationed temporarily at Winnsboro.

State police reported that the automobile in which he was riding left the highway near Alto and turned over in a nearby field. Mr. Patterson, driver and only occupant of the car, was treated at the sanitarium for brain concussion, lacerations of the face, and severe bruises.

Mr. Patterson was formerly of Tennessee. He was the son-in-law of Will Prudhomme, Caddo parish deputy sheriff.

BARNS SERVICES ARE CONDUCTED

Monroe Resident Succumbed Thursday At Home At Age Of 76

Funeral services for Mrs. Isabella Flemming Barns, wife of the late George A. Barns, who died at 6:15 p.m. Thursday at the family residence at 808 St. John street, were held Friday afternoon at the residence, with Rev. Edward F. Hayward, rector of the Grace Episcopal Church, officiating. Interment followed in the Riverview Cemetery. She was 76.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of Peters Funeral Home.

Mrs. Barns was born on January 26, 1864 at the family plantation home near Covington, La. Her father died during the War Between the States and she moved with her family to New Orleans, later going to McComb, Miss. In 1903, Mr. and Mrs. Barns and their family moved to Monroe where they resided for the remainder of their lives.

Pallbearers were E. L. Neville, Nelson Robinson, Melvin S. Dixon, Sr., Eugene Eby, Sr., Chester Nenny, Sr., Judge David I. Garrett, Tom Easterling and J. S. Washburn.

Mrs. Barns is survived by three daughters, Mrs. H. J. Larson of Aurora, Mo., Mrs. H. S. McLaughlin of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. J. B. Johnston, Sr., Monroe; one son, R. C. Barns of Gadsden, Ala; four grandchildren, H. S. McLaughlin, Jr., Washington, George S. McLaughlin of Laurel, Miss., Mrs. C. B. Wright of St. Petersburg, Fla., and John Bishop Johnston, Jr., Sterlington; and three great grandchildren, Donald Wright, St. Petersburg, and Elizabeth and John Bishop Johnston III, Sterlington.

EAST CARROLL MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Nov. 8.—(Special)—Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock for J. Cluren Surles, who killed himself at midnight Wednesday with a .38 pistol.

Coroner G. S. Hopkins of East Carroll parish returned a verdict of "death by self-inflicted wounds."

Mr. Surles was the manager at the Way-A-Way plantation owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Amacker. His wife spent the night of the tradgedy with friends and found the body when she returned home Thursday morning early. No reason could be given for the suicide. Mr. Surles was born in Pitman county, Ga., December 28, 1902. He came to East Carroll parish in 1926.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Charles; a brother, A. T. Surles, Lake Providence; and two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Manry, Edison, Ga.; and Mrs. Ethel Ogletree, Eufaula, Ga.

The furcal services will be held at the plantation with Rev. A. L. Russell, minister of the Lake Providence Baptist church officiating.

Pallbearers will be J. L. Johnson, A. K. Amacker, George Ogletree, T. L. Merrill, and James Surles.
